671 Grads In 13 Richland Schools Await Diplomas

Commencement Season Opens Next Friday at Lucas and Continues Until June 9 When Mansfield High Sends Out Biggest Class In Its History, 286.

Graduation—the biggest event in the life of any youngster who has completed 12 years of schooling—will be the reward for 671 boys and girls in 13 Mansfield, Shelby and Richland county high schools during the next month.

It's the season for Mother and Dad as well as Son and Daughter, and neither parent objects to a little "skimping" if the money goes to buy a new suit for Son and a frilly dress for Daughter.

It was well worth the sacrifice, Mother and Dad think, if Mary and Johnny look nice as they march down the aisle to get their diplomas.

The schedule of myriad activities that go with graduation already is under way in a number of the county's rural schools, with youthful actors and actresses rehearsing for the annual class play which starts the end-of-school program.

Plans Outdoor Ceremonies.

Commencement, the climax of weeks of work and planning, will bring diplomas to 286 students in Mansfield high school, the largest class ever to be graduated from the school. Commencement ceremonies will be held June 9 in the stadium, if the weather permits.

Beginning next Friday night at Lucas, where 22 graduates will complete their public school work, the commencement ceremonies will crowd the school calendar until the end of May. Then there will be an intermission until the Mansfield ceremonies June 9. Four commencements are set for May 26 and three for May 27.

Despite the trend away from commencement speakers in many sections, only three of the 13 high schools in the city and county have not booked speakers for ceremonies this spring. Lucas, Shiloh and Bellville seniors will conduct their own commencements, with class valedictorians and salutatorians holding the spotlight in the ceremonies.

Dr. Otto Mees, president of Capital university, Columbus, will deliver the address at the Mansfield exercises the school's first outdoor commencement. Open air ceremonies were planned last year, however, but rain forced the audience into the auditorium at the

You've Got to Watch 'Em, They Come Every Year

There's sure to be one in every year; sometimes two or three, but in 1938 there's only one.

But you've always got to watch 'em. And yourself. Something might happen.

Don't start things you can't finish. Don't start on a trip; don't plan to move to another house.

Don't go fishing because you probably won't catch any fish. Don't talk back to the boss—you might lose your job. Don't talk back to your mother-in-law—you might lose your wife and your home. Everything, maybe, but your mother-in-law.

Don't walk under ladders, and if a black cat crosses your path, hurry home and lock yourself in.

What's all this dither? Don't look now, but the calendar says it's Friday, the 13th.

And if you're not superstitious—don't pay any attention to this.

CHARGES COURT REVERSED SELF

Walls Tells Hughes Decision on Farm Order 20 Months Behind Department.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary Wallace has told Chief Justice Hughes that a supreme court decision invalidating an agricultural department order not only reversed the court's stand two years ago, but was 20 months behind a similar change in procedure instituted voluntarily by the department.

The secretary's views were made public last night in an unprecedented letter to the chief justice dated May 3, a week after the court decision.

Wallace's decision to give out the letter apparently was prompted by a speech the chief justice delivered earlier in the day, in which he asserted that the success of government administrative agencies would be commensurate with their exercise of judicial "impartiality and independence."

Defending his department's Kallmerten Chances Grow as Poulson's Due to Leave.

Added strength was given today to reports that E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic executive committee chairman might become state chairman.

Dispatches from Columbus said it had been definitely learned that the present chairman, Francis W. Poulson, would resign after the August primary, regardless of the outcome.

Yesterday it was reported from Columbus that should Poulson resign, Gov. Martin L. Davey would like to see Kallmerten named state chairman. If Davey wins renomination over Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, in the primary, he will have enough strength to bring Kallmerten's election as party head about.

Kallmerten will confer with Gov. Davey in Columbus tomorrow. He said yesterday he would take the position if "Gov. Davey wants me to."

HENLEIN FAILS TO MEET WITH HIGH OFFICIALS

Czechoslovakian Minister's Hurried Trip to Prevent Conference Succeeds.

EMPHASIZES RESISTANCE

Action Indicates Country's Decision It Won't Bow to Sudeten Demands.

LONDON —Czechoslovakia threw its full diplomatic weight today against an attempt by Konrad Henlein to win British support for the German minority within Czechoslovakia.

With speedy and determined action, Jan Masaryk, the Czech minister, successfully blocked Henlein's attempts to talk with high British officials.

Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Nazi party in Czechoslovakia, had to content himself with a luncheon attended by Winston Churchill and Sir Archibald Sinclair, respectively leaders in the conservative and anti-government liberal parties.

Hurries to Foreign Office.

Masaryk, son of the late president of Czechoslovakia, upon learning that Henlein sought an interview with Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic advisor to the government, dashed to the foreign office and expressed the hope that Britain would not engage in direct discussions with Henlein.

The foreign office replied that there has never been any intention on the part of the government to approach Henlein directly.

Action of the Czech minister in London, strong as it was, seemed to many to be an indication that the Czechoslovakian government of President Edouard Benes would not bow to the Sudeten's demands for autonomy.

Diplomatic quarters felt the moment is coming to strike, one way or the other. And chancelleries throughout Europe were actively seeking safeguards against an outbreak if President Benes insists on drawing a sword instead of bowing to Henlein.

DIPLOMACY GETS TEST

(By Associated Press)

The British-French model of streamlined, realistic diplomacy—successful in one trial on the Geneva track—was confronted today by new tests in the realism of a Chinese diplomat and a visit to London by Konrad Henlein, fuehrer of Czechoslovakia's restless German minority.

SETS FORD-NLRB HEARING DATE

U. S. Court to Hear Board's Appeal June 10.

COVINGTON, Ky. —(INS)— The federal court of appeals today set June 10 for hearing the national labor relations board's petition seeking enforcement of its ruling against the Ford Motor company.

The June date was sought by the NLRB last Wednesday when the board reversed itself and asked for hearing of the suit.

Previously NLRB attorneys had asked permission to withdraw the enforcement petition.

City's First Gold Star Mother Taken By Death

Mrs. McVey to Be Buried Saturday Beside Son, First Mansfielder to Give Life In World War.

Mrs. Prudence Wilson McVey, 71, Mansfield's first Gold Star mother and for whose son, Earle, McVey post of the American Legion was named, died shortly after midnight this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ray B. Bogan, 59 Maple street, after a long illness.

Her son, Earle D. McVey, was killed at the battle of Chateau-Thierry on July 19, 1918, and after the war his body was returned to Mansfield for burial. He was buried in the American Legion lot in Mansfield cemetery. Some years ago the Legion post deeded a half of the plat to her because of her desire to be buried beside her son.

She was deeply attached to the American Legion and its auxiliary and until the time of her illness took part in the activities of the organizations.

Mrs. McVey, the widow of the late Filmore L. McVey, was born in Columbus, Oct. 24, 1866, and came to Mansfield 24 years ago, residing here since that time.

She was a member of St. Matthew's church. Surviving her are four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Loudon, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. Lee Sweet, Mentor, O.; and Mrs. David Whitlock and Mrs. Bogan of this city, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the Bogan home at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, with Rev. Charles Sheriff officiating. Members of the Legion will serve as pallbearers.

SEEKS STATION

Richland, Inc., Would Erect Broadcasting Outlet Here.

A new application for permission to construct and operate a radio station in Mansfield—the third in the last two years—has been filed in Washington.

The applicant, according to Associated Press dispatches, is "Richland, Inc." First advices did not name the incorporators.

The application asks permission to operate a 250-watt station daytime on a frequency of 1370 kilocycles. The federal communications division said the application would be referred to its engineering division.

The commission last month rejected an application by Allen Simmons, operating Station WADC in Akron, for a Mansfield permit, and last year rejected an application filed by an incorporation headed by Frazier Reams, Toledo.

BAN BABY MOVIE IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—"The Birth of a Baby," controversial motion picture, was banned in Cincinnati by City Manager C. O. Sherrill today.

The picture had been scheduled to open at Keith's theater here today.

Police were sent to the theater to prevent the first showing. Police Chief Eugene Weatherly had reported to the city manager earlier that the picture was "positively terrible."

The picture has been approved by the Ohio board of censors.

GIBSON QUITS

U. S. Minister To Belgium To Be Succeeded By Davies.

Gibson is being replaced at Brussels by Joseph Davies, former ambassador to Soviet Russia.

SECOND FUND REPORT TODAY

Community Fund Workers Give Figures At Noon Meeting.

The second report from workers in the Community Fund campaign was to be made this noon when they met at First Methodist church.

The first report, made Wednesday, showed that $11,980 had been raised the first day of the drive. General Chairman Arthur S. Hughes urged all workers to redouble their efforts in an attempt to reach $40,000 by today.

Although the drive for $53,950 is scheduled to carry through May 21, Hughes hopes to have most of the total reported by Monday or Tuesday.

PROGRAM PASSES HOUSE

Measure Receives Approval in Noisy Night Session; Senate Opens Debate Next Week.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Anti-administration senators demanded restrictions today on President Roosevelt's control over the $3,000,000,000 relief and public works fund voted by the house in a noisy night session.

Senator Byrd (D., Va), frequent critic of administration measures, conferred with some of his colleagues on the possibility of "earmarking" the bulky bill to limit the uses to which the money could be put.

Sees Clean Path.

But Senator Adams (D., Colo.), chairman of an appropriations sub-committee handling the legislation, predicted it would reach the senate floor by the middle of next week without important changes.

Democratic leaders, retaining hopes of mid-June adjournment, expected senate passage in another week.

The house approved the measure last night, 329 to 70, after three-day fight by ... Twenty-five Republicans voted for the bill, while 11 Democrats were among the opponents. There were no progressive or farmer-laborite votes against it.

The bill appropriates $1,250,000,000 for WPA work relief, $965,000,000 for a new public works program under PWA, $175,000,000 for rehabilitation of needy farmers, $75,000,000 for the National Youth Administration, and $25,000,000 for federal public buildings.

Authorizes Loans.

It also authorizes loans of $500,000,000 from a PWA revolving fund, construction of $35,000,000 worth of public buildings, and use of $10,000,00 in RFC funds for rural electrification.

Twice the powerful majority killed a Republican proposal to turn administration of relief back to the states. More than 50 other amendments also were defeated.

'WINTER' OVER

Mercury Due to Climb Tonight and Tomorrow.

It began to look today as though "winter" was breaking up again after four tough days.

The mercury got down below freezing again last night, touching 30, according to Observer Otto Sprunger, but had climbed to 59 at 11 a. m., and gave signs of going higher, with a bright sun shining industriously. The 59-degree mark was the highest since Tuesday, when the top reading was 66.

The forecast was helpful, too. It said: "Fair, not so cold tonight. Saturday warmer, showers."

There was frost last night—and birds had to break ice in the bird baths again if they wanted a morning bath.

Yesterday's high was 58 and the average was 44. 13 degrees below normal.

UTILITY OFFERS TO RENEW RATES FOR HALF PERIOD

Ohio Fuel Would Continue Schedule In Effect Now If City Will Take 71-Cent Gas Same Number of Years; Council Opposition Assured.

Making a further concession to the city on gas rates, the Ohio Fuel Gas company today had submitted a new proposition for council consideration, with lower figures than those in their first proposal.

The new plan, however, embodies a variation of the old "sandbag" principle.

The company will agree to a renewal of the present rate (65 cents a thousand on the basis of 5,000 feet per month) for one, two or three years if the city will agree to a 71-cent rate for the same number of years.

William C. Mead, Mansfield division manager of the company, submitted that proposal to Russell D. Porch, chairman of council's utilities committee yesterday, after he had conferred with company officials in Columbus.

Porch said he would submit the plan to council when it meets in special session tonight to give a first reading to an ordinance that would continue present rates for another three-year period, but said he would be opposed to the company's proposal.

"It would put the city in a bad bargaining position at the expiration of the contract," Porch pointed out.

Mayor Joins In Opposition.

He was joined in opposing the plan by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, who said he would approve a renewal of the present rates, but would "certainly" veto anything calling for higher rates.

The company's proposal briefly is this: It will agree to renewal of the present rate of $1 for the first 500 cubic feet and 50 cents per thousand for all over that for any period agreeable to council. If council will approve for the same number of years a rate structure that calls for $1 for the first 500 feet, 60 per thousand for the next 1,500 feet, 55 cents per thousand for the next 3,000 feet and 50 cents per thousand thereafter.

Under that plan, assuming that council should approve a four-year contract, the 5,000-foot consumer would pay: $3.25 a month for two years, and $3.55 a month for two years, or 65 cents a thousand for two years and 71 cents for two years, an average of 68 cents for the four years.

Under the company's proposal the 7,000-foot consumer would pay 65 cents a thousand, as compared

FINDS NEW CLUE IN CABLE CASE

Police Chief Says 'New Trail' Bobs Up in Hunt for Killer of Contractor's Wife.

CANTON — (U.P.) — Police Chief Ira Manderbaugh said he was following "an absolutely new trail" today in his renewed efforts to solve the slaying of Mrs. Rose B. Cable, wife of a well-to-do Canton contractor, 14 months ago.

Chief Manderbaugh went to Conneaut to question friends of Miss Theresa Ludwig, 46, who committed suicide last Monday after writing a letter which accused Dueber S. Cable, 48, of "hiring" the killing of his wife for $200. Cable vigorously denied the charge in the suicide letter. He is still in jail.

According to Manderbaugh, police in another city are checking a new clue involving a .410 gauge shotgun. Mrs. Cable was killed by a shotgun charge fired through the window of her home on the night of March 11, 1937.

"We are checking angles we never checked before," the police chief said. "We now have a fifty-fifty chance of cracking this case."

Relatives of Miss Ludwig, once the sweetheart of Cable, were questioned by police here last night. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Rodebaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beals of Conneaut and Don Ludwig of Meadville, Pa. Mrs. Beals and Mrs. Rodebaugh were sisters of Miss Ludwig and Ludwig a brother.

ELEVEN ENTERED FOR PREAKNESS

All Expected Entries Filed for $70,000 Race Event.

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Eleven three-year-olds, one of them a filly, today were entered for the 48th running of the $70,000 Preakness at Pimlico tomorrow. Names of all the expected entries were in the box a half-hour before closing time at 10:30 a. m., EST.

The only surprise was the entry of Bull Whip from Donald Ross' Brandywine stable of Wilmington, Del. There was some doubt, however, whether the son of Bull Dog would answer the call to boots and saddles at approximately 4:45 p. m., tomorrow.

CABINET QUITS

Belgian Ministers Resign in Fight Over Tax Plan.

BRUSSELS—(AP)—The Belgian cabinet headed by Premier Paul Emile Janson resigned today after five and a half months in office. The cabinet was formed Nov. 24, 1937, succeeding that of Paul Van Zeeland.

The resignation was due to differences over the government's tax proposals, designed to balance the budget.

(The cabinet was a coalition of Janson's own Liberal party, Socialists and the Catholic party.)

The present crisis, threatening for some time, came to a head when Catholic ministers refused to participate further in the government.

West Quits Interior Post As 'Family Quarrel' Brews

BULLETIN:

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt nominated Harry Slattery of South Carolina today to be undersecretary of the interior succeeding Charles West.

Charles West, former Ohio congressman, resigned today as undersecretary of the interior, dispatches from Washington said, while an administration family squabble swirled about his head.

Announcement of West's resignation was made at the White House, dispatches said. President Roosevelt has accepted it and, is "looking around" for a new post for West, who as congressman once represented the 17th Ohio district, which includes Richland county, in congress.

The administration's "family quarrel" grew out of reported plans of the president to appoint West comptroller of the currency, a $15,000-a-year job.

This move, dispatches said, is being opposed by Postmaster General James A. Farley, who seeks to avoid an inquisition of West by Democrats in the senate. The appointment would have to be confirmed by the senate.

As undersecretary of the interior, West has spent most of his time as a liaison man for the president in the house. This activity resulted in his estrangement from his superior, Secretary Ickes, who stripped West's office of furniture and office assistants.

Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury today disavowed any connection with the reported West move to the currency post.

"I did not recommend Mr. West for the position," the secretary said.

Distinctive Stamp Issued For Observance of Air Mail Week

A distinctive, two color six-cent air mail stamp, issued by the United States Post Office Department in recognition of National Air Mail Week, May 15-21, will go on sale in Mansfield, Monday.

Postmaster Herman E. Homberger, Richland county chairman of the celebration committee, planning for the 20th anniversary observance of the air mail service here, said the stamp will be symbolic of the air mail and should be welcomed by the hundreds of stamp collectors in the Mansfield district who will send letters on the first official air mail flight from the city, May 19.

The mail will be flown to Cleveland on the regular air mail route by Henry E. Cunning, a Mansfield mail carrier, who holds a private pilots' license and who has been commissioned by the government as a temporary air mail pilot.

Homberger said the stamp of distinctive air mail design, will be the same size as the commemorative issues. The border is printed in blue and the central design is in red. The center design depicts an eagle with outstretched wings, bearing in its talons a shield, olive wreath and a bundle of arrows.

While the stamps will not be available here until Monday, the opening day of air mail week, they will be placed on sale tomorrow at Dayton, home of the Wright brothers, who built the first successful airplane, and at St. Petersburg, Fla., where the first passenger flight was made.

MRS. HALL PRESENTS PROGRAM AT MEETING

Beta Sigma Phi Members Entertained at Home of Misses Dorothy, Jane Bacon; Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer Gives Paper.

MRS. GEORGE HALL was guest pianist last night when members of Beta Sigma Phi met at the home of the Misses Dorothy and Jane Bacon, Glenwood boulevard. Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer gave a paper contrasting old and new music and Mrs. Hall presented the musical numbers to correspond with the paper.

Miss Kochenderfer gave short synopsis of the lives of Mozart, Rimski-Korsakov, Tschaikovsky, Rachmaninoff and Arensky. The selections which Mrs. Hall played were "Minuet" by Mozart, "Flight of the Bumblebee" by Korsakov, "Dance of the Candy Fairy" from the Nut Cracker Suite by Tschaikovsky, "Prelude in G Minor" by Rachmaninoff and "Etude in F Sharp Major" by Arensky.

From Mt Vernon chapter of the sorority the Misses Betty Rawlinson, Mary Ellen Fettig, Hazel Spittle and Katherine Armstrong were guests. In addition to the program a short business meeting was conducted and the officers who were elected recently were installed.

The next regular session of the organization will be held May 26 but the place was not announced.

Brinkerhoff Group Has Election of Officers

Following the annual open house at Brinkerhoff school last night, the P. T. A. met and elected officers. Edward Gibson was named to succeed F. O. Eckstein in the president's chair. Robert Black will serve as vice president, Harold Dysart as treasurer and Miss Thelma Shaffer as secretary.

William Fenn was appointed general chairman for the lawn fete which will be held June 8. A picnic of the patrol boys of both Brinkerhoff and Carpenter schools was announced. A program of humorous readings was given by Miss Virginia Jenkins at the close of the meeting.

JACOBS OFFERS TEN PER CENT OF FIGHT PROFITS TO AID REFUGEES.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK — (NS) — At first blush, it looked like a very splendid thing. Promoter Mike Jacobs, it was announced late yesterday, had decided to "kitty" out 10 per cent of his net profits on ticket sales for the Schmeling-Louis prize fight and donate same to the president's refugee aid committee, for an amount not less than $7,500.

The second blush, though, modestly mantled the cheek of Promoter Jacobs himself when, belatedly, it was realized that, for the sum of $7,500 he had effectually rid himself of the proposed anti-Nazi boycott of Schmeling—for purposes of this fight. He had, in effect, made the boycott people a partner in the enterprise and, after all, they can't very well set out with marked resolution to boycott themselves. And even less can they boycott the president.

I very much fear, in fact, that the picture of Mike Jacobs, philanthropist and humanitarian, would be more convincing if you didn't consider these salient points, plus almost any number of others which doubtless occurred to Promoter Jacobs long ago and will come to the rest of us by degrees. For one thing, if there's no boycott, or very little, he'll add maybe $100,000 on the gate.

For another, just what the donation will take off the man's income tax in the form of charitable bequests, is something strictly between him and Mr. Big, the guy who comes around on "tap day," otherwise March 15, and consents to accept all you've got for having let you spend more than you can make.

At the time that announcement of the donation was made, there was a flurry of speculation about how Hitler would feel about his favorite prize fighter engaging in an enterprise that proposed to give aid and comfort to refugees from abroad, notably from Mr. Hitler's Germany. Offhand, I should say, though, that the latter seems less interested in what becomes of refugees than that they "refugee" beyond his borders with all possible haste.

* * *

Schmeling Refuses To Comment.

AS FOR Schmeling, he refused to state his position, saying only that he came to America to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship and not to discuss international politics, but it was declared from his quarters that "Schmeling doesn't care what Mike Jacobs does with his money." Nevertheless, it's a nice point that may yet be open to considerable argument, especially since the boycott people seem to like the idea and have even expressed public commendation, which is a mistake, since anything one side likes in a case of this kind, the other automatically doesn't.

Meantime, Promoter Jacobs has improved his position immeasurably, at small cost to himself. He has tied himself in with Mr. Big and will make money with one hand and save it with the other, or he'll have himself a load of Linotype and white paper—at the price of a day letter. Quite a man, Promoter Jacobs.

Mehock's Men Conclude Dual Sked at Akron

Red Streaks Face Another Tough Test Saturday.

Coach Harry Mehock and his Mansfield high school men of the track and field will probably be glad when its all over Saturday.

They conclude their dual meet schedule at Akron Garfield Saturday, and then will get ready for the district championships to be staged in Fremont.

Ready For District.

The Red Streaks have fared very poorly in dual competition, and they are anxious to complete this part of their schedule to start preparations for the district event.

Due to their failure to win more than one dual meet this season, the Streaks chances to win the district title may not appear very encouraging.

However, Mehock holds hopes that the Streaks will be very prominent contenders in the Fremont competition.

Their develpoment had advanced to a point where they must be considered in the pre-meet reckoning, although they may not rate as highly as the Fremont and Sandusky athletes.

Fremont and Sandusky both won dual meet victories over Mansfield. The Little Giants caught Mansfield before it was prepared early in the season, and the Blue Streaks edged the Mehockmen by the margin of only four points, a result the Red Streaks might have changed had they not been weakened by the loss of a member.

Garfield Strong.

Mehock's thin-clads meet another tough opponent in Akron Saturday, and he is not so sure that his team can take the Presidents into camp.

Garfield has been a dominating factor in the track sport for many years, and it is represented by one of the finest in history this season, Mehock understands.

Ray Anthony Heads League

Ray Anthony was elected president of the Commercial B bowling league at the annual banquet staged at the Fry Bros. restaurant in Crestline last night. He succeeds John Graf.

Roy Vaughn was elected secretary-treasurer of the circuit for the ninth straight year.

The same rules and regulations under which the league operated this year were approved for the next season, retaining a limit of 185 on individual averages and 900 on team averages. The rules eliminate only two of this year's bowlers. Edward Meder and Cliff Forsythe.

Ralph Schad, who rolled a perfect game in the league in January, was presented with a special trophy.

Feller Turns in Fine Hill Job to Beat Yanks, 3-2; Tribe Home Today.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) —Baseball's "million dollar kid," Bob Feller, looking down on the diamond world today from the game's loftiest peak.

As the Cleveland Indians returned home to open a three-game series with the Chicago White Sox the bitter memories of a disastrous trip through the east were wiped away and the lagging spirits of Tribe players burned anew with aspirations to remain in the thick of the American league pennant chase.

Feller, the 19-year-old Iowa farmboy whose brief major league career is marked by repeated performances with a fictional tinge to them, was responsible for the situation. Yesterday Feller climbed to superb heights as he hurled Cleveland to a well-earned 3 to 2 triumph over the world champion New York Yankees.

Fourth for Bob.

Pitching what was probably the greatest contest of his meteoric career, Feller amazed a great midweek crowd of 18,000 fans as he mixed a blazing fast ball with a tortuous-breaking curve to hang up his fourth victory of the young season.

The Tribe's schoolboy ace granted the Yankees only five hits. He set nine of the world champions down on strikes and his control was so good that he permitted only three bases on balls.

Pitching with the poise of a seasoned veteran Feller was in trouble but twice. In the fifth he momentarily lost control and walked Myril Hoag and Bill Knickerbocker, the first two men to face him. Hoag was nipped at third on "Lefty" Gomez's attempted sacrifice, and then Frank Crosetti and Red Rolfe were retired on easy chances to end the threat.

In the sixth Tommy Henrich opened with a single to right. DiMaggio and Dickey were retired on pop flies, but then Lou Gehrig, who had struck out twice previously, smashed one of Feller's offerings into the right field stands to account for both of the New Yorkers' runs.

Gomez in the box for the Yanks gave the Indians only four hits, but they were combined effectively with New York misplays to provide the winning margin.

Scores In Sixth.

Cleveland's three runs came in the sixth. Bruce Campbell opened with a double to left. Hale bunted in front of the plate and was safe when Dickey fumbled the ball, Campbell moving to third. Solters singled to score Campbell. Averill singled to score Hale and send Solters to third. DiMaggio fumbled Averill's hit and he moved to second. Solters scored the final run as Trosky grounded out to Gehrig.

Of the five hits made off Feller, Henrich and Gehrig secured two each and Frank Crosetti the other. When the youthful Indian star stopped DiMaggio it marked the first time this season that the Yanks' outfielder had failed to hit safely.

The victory enabled Cleveland to climb back into a tie for second place with New York, one game behind the pace-setting Washington club.

Church League Inaugurates City Softball Season Monday

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE annual softball war sweeps down on the Mansfield sports front next week when three Y. M. C. A. leagues swing into action with a nine-game program on the city park diamonds.

Hostilities officially open at 6 p. m Monday with the Church league inaugurating the season. A seven-team circuit will battle it out for the championship. First M. E., last year's champions, is expected to withdraw from the league, Don C Cram, Y softball commission secretary, stated today. The club will probably play in either the Club or Commercial league.

Among the teams in the Church league are First Lutheran, Park Avenue Baptist, United Brethren, South Main Evangelical, St. Johns Evangelist and St. Marks Lutheran. The clubs will play on Johns, Liberty, Prospect and North park diamonds.

Softball fans will get their first glimpse of the Commercial league teams Wednesday. Although the team entry is not definite, at least seven teams are set to start the ball rolling.

The Commercial loop clubs already entered are Nick's Place, Hartman Electric, All-State Freights, Tappan Stoves and Miller's Dairy.

The Club league, judging from the list of entries filed, may provide plenty of fireworks for fans. Seven clubs have entered the league and Cram said today that another team will be sought to provide the league with four games each Friday.

Heading the list are the Schoolmasters, defending champions, who will take the field as favorites to repeat. The champions' principal threats are the Hermit club, Wesco club, Catholic Foresters, and the Knights of Columbus. New teams making debuts this season are the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Local Union No. 40.

The complete schedule for all leagues will be announced following a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. softball commission at the Y at 7:30 p. m. today. Team managers and umpires will also meet at the Y tonight.

50 Years Of U. S. Golf

By GARDNER SOULE

BECAUSE most initiates of the 1880's played golf on Sundays, they were assailed from the pulpit. Clergymen, insisting the new "nefarious" pastime was a sure way to make the acquaintance of the devil, declared no game whose main object was to break the Sabbath could succeed.

Fox, Bull Lea Head Field

Hope to Make Up for Poor Derby Performances.

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Before roaring, restless thousands, Fighting Fox and Bull Lea will seek in tomorrow's $70,000 Preakness to trample into forgotten shreds the formidable question marks they stamped on themselves with disappointing Kentcuky derby performances.

Their records, from birth on, almost shout that they should be able to race with the stretch-running Dauber, long-shot in the derby for which Fighting Fox was 7-5 favorite and Bull Lea the heavily played second choice.

Can't Wait, Myron Selznick's little colt which ran third in the derby, will seek Preakness honors under a new but very able jockey —George Woolfe.

The field of ten probable starters includes one filly, Anaflame, out for the distinction of becoming the third of her sex to win the rich purse.

Of the five others, only Hal Price Headley's Menow, juvenile champion of 1937, is given much of a chance to share in the split of the pot of gold. He probably will have Dah He, an inconsistent colt, as a running mate. Ral Parr's Hypocrite, A. C. Compton's Sun Egret, and Townsend B. Martin's Cravat complete the field.

Senators Hop Back Into Van

Defeat Detroit, 7 to 6, in Final Tilt of Series.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Whether the Washington Senators are merely an early season flash or must be considered seriously as a pennant factor in the American league will be determined during a 14-game road trip which the club opened today at Boston.

The surprising Senators bounced back into first place yesterday when they stifled a late rally of the Detroit Tigers and eked out a 7 to 6 victory.

Deshong Wabbles in 7th.

Jimmy Deshong gave Detroit only one hit in the first six innings yesterday and then began to wobble. He permitted one run to score in the seventh and was knocked from the hill during a five-run barrage in the eighth. Hank Greenberg's home run with two men on base almost brought disastor to the Senators' cause.

Aging Tony Lazzeri, the handy man of the Chicago Cubs, stole the National league spotlight as he paced the Bruins to a 9 to 5 victory over Brooklyn.

Tony Gets 4 Hits.

Lazzeri, playing shortstop in place of Billy Jurges and hitting in the clean-up spot, garnered four hits in as many trips to the plate and drove in five Chicago runs. In the other game Cincinnati blanked Boston, 4 to 0.

Burnison Gets Corry's Post

Named Head Coach of All Galion High Sports.

GALION—John Burnison has been named athletic director of Galion high school, it was revealed following a meeting of the school board. Burnison succeeds Robert Corry, who recently resigned to take over the physical education directorship at Cuyahoga Falls.

The appointment will put Burnison in charge of football and track as well as basketball, which he coached last winter. An assistant will be chosen to aid Burnison.

A native of Galion, Burnison is a graduate of the high school there, and attended both Heidelberg college and Ohio university. He was prominent in athletics in both high school and college.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE CAPTAINS MEET TONIGHT

Captains of teams in the Commercial C league will hold an important business meeting at the Meder bowling alleys at 7 p. m. today. All captains are urged to attend.

Billiards to Try Saturday Baseball

Play First Game This Week Against Mt. Vernon Club at League Park.

WHETHER or not Saturday afternoon baseball will pay in the city will be determined in an experiment to be conducted by the Rex Billiards.

John Stoner, manager of the Cuemen, announced today that he will send his club against strong neighboring city opponents in a series of games this month to test interest in Saturday ball.

Billed At 3 P. M.

The Billiards will inaugurate their Saturday schedule tomorrow at League park against the Mt. Vernon Merchants, who form one of the stronger Knox county combines. The game is billed to get under way at 3 p. m.

Stoner also announced that his team has been strengthened by the addition of four new players.

Three of the four additions are pitchers, and Stoner expects them to strengthen the mound staff, which has not functioned as well as the manager anticipated at the start of the season.

The pitchers are Fosnight, a left hander, and Rose and Moore, right handers. The first named hail from southern Ohio, and Moore twirled for the Shelby Eagles last season.

Moore will start against Mt. Vernon Saturday, Stoner said, and either Rose or Fosnight will draw the assignment Sunday when the Cuemen invade Hayesville.

Bowen Joins Club.

Bowen, a first baseman, who is widely known in amateur circles in these parts, is the other addition.

Stoner's lineup Saturday will consist of Bowen, Heckert, S. Skulski and Nickelvich, infield, and Charters, Foremen and M. Skulski, infield. Jim Sawhill will be the receiver.

Mann Favored Over Galento

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Nathan Mann of New Haven, Conn., who was knocked out this winter by heavyweight champion Joe Louis, was a slight favorite to defeat Tony (Two Ton) Galento of Orange, N. J., in a ten-round fight tonight at Madison Square Garden. WJZ-NBC will put the fight on the air at 9 p. m.

THAT'S VALUE!

YOU will know the minute you see this tire why car owners everywhere call it the greatest tire ever made to sell at these low prices. The deeper, wider, flatter non-skid tread made of tough, long wearing rubber will give you dependable service and protection against dangerous skidding.

But tires cannot be judged on tread alone. Under the tread of Firestone Standard Tires are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. This Firestone patented construction feature binds the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit, provides greater strength and guards against punctures. Now examine the body of the tire. Every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure liquid rubber which counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life. This Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping makes the tire stronger—gives greater protection against blowouts and is used only in Firestone Tires.

Oilmen Sign Bob's Brother

Frantz DeHaven, Dayton semi-pro player, will make his debut in Mansfield with the undefeated Hi-Speeds when they face the dangerous Columbus Red Sox at 3 p m Sunday at League park.

Manager Earl Herrick said today that DeHaven, brother of Bob DeHaven, John Simpson Junior high basketball coach, and regular Hi-Speeds second baseman, will probably be used in the infield.

The newcomer was recently a member of the Dayton Rogers, touted semi-pro club, and is expected to add considerable punch to the Hi-Speeds' batting attack.

SAVE GAME FISH

Montana To Block Irrigation Ditches In State.

HELENA, Mont. —(AP)— Montana is planning to screen every irrigation ditch leading from streams stocked with game fish.

John M. Schofield, superintendent of state fisheries, said thousands of game fish die each year because they are unable to get back into streams after they go through irrigation ditch headgates.

THEATER

Filming "The Great Waltz", with Fernand Gravet and Luise Rainer, should bring some of the world's best loved music to the screen. This is the musical story built around the rivalry that existed between the two Johann Strausses, father and son, for the title of "Waltz King" of Vienna. The operetta was a hit on Broadway for several seasons and then went on tour. M-G-M will make the film version of it, and will incorporate a number of the famous Strauss waltzes and modern songs set to Strauss melodies.

"College Swing"

"Stolen Heaven," with Gene Raymond and Olympe Bradna, ends its Madison theater engagement tonight, giving way tomorrow to the new musical from Paramount, "College Swing." Gracie Allen and George Burns head an imposing cast of screen and radio stars, including Martha Raye, Bob Hope, Edward Everett Horton, Betty Grable, Jackie Coogan, and Ben Blue. It's a college comedy in which the Big Apple gets a big play. The picture opens at the Madison tomorrow noon for four days.

Mickey Holds Own.

Mickey Rooney, one of the growing up juvenile actors, is more than holding his own with his older fellow players in the Judge Hardy series, and to many followers of this family series, he is the most interesting of the cast. Young Rooney has a great capacity for being natural on the screen, something that many of the great stars do not possess. In the stories he is the adolescent boy, just learning about girls and taking some interest in his hair, ears, neck and hands. In the current picture, "Judge Hardy's Children," he wonders if he's quite normal—because of an intense desire to kiss every pretty girl he meets. The picture, with Lewis Stone, Cecilia Parker and Fay Holden, is at the Ohio.

* * *

Action In Arizona.

Tom Herbert, brother of Hugh Herbert, dizzy but popular character delineator has a prominent role in the Western film, "Stars over Arizona," opening at the Majestic today. He plays one of the characters in a small Arizona community. Into the community comes Jack Randall as a special agent of the governor, to clean up outlawry and to find the governor's son. Romance with a feminine cattle owner develops, and there's gunplay and fist fights before the story ends happily. Two clever jewel thieves are pitted against each other in "Double Danger," with Preston Foster and Whitney Bourne, with a set of famous diamonds as the object of their affections.

* * *

Crooning Cowboy.

With Bob Baker, crooning cowboy, Jane Barclay and Fuzzy Knight in the featured roles, supported by Carl Stockdale, Roy Mason and other well known Western players, "The Singing Outlaw" comes to the Ritz today for two days. Witness at a double murder, Baker is placed squarely in the center of action which starts with the rodeo at Cheyenne, Wyo. Instead of shooting down the killers, as he could have, he rounds them up in legitimate manner, and their followers with them. On the same bill is "The Women Men Marry" with George Murphy, Josephine Hutchinson, Claire Dodd and Cliff Edwards

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—When Director Lloyd Bacon sold his San Fernando valley "ranch home" he sold it all, house and land and everything in it.

The present occupants, slightly publicized of late are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein, and the legal owner is Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.

At the bar in the house are rows of beer mugs monogrammed "L.B."

"For 'Lillian Bernstein'," Jackie Coogan's mother told a visitor.

But Jackie Coogan's stepfather interposed slyly: "For 'Lloyd Bacon.' She had to marry me so she could use all the things!"

* * *

The courts are determining whether the Bernsteins, who have by force of circumstances been cast as "heavies" in the Kid's accounting suit, are deserving of the comment and implications that have piled up on them. Meanwhile, as young Jackie gave out statements, one that come informally from Bernstein struck me as something else to think about. Bernstein, long the Coogan business manager before he married the widow of Jackie's father, spoke of the long-range effects of the court action.

"However this thing turns out," he said, "in five or ten years it won't make much difference and the public will have forgotten about it. But then there'll be Jackie, who loves his mother, and his mother, who loves Jackie—and many things have been said that can't be taken back entirely."

* * *

That brought to mind the only occasion on which I ever saw the present Coogan menage together at home in precourt days. It was on an interview with Jackie two years ago, just before he came of age. Jackie didn't seem much concerned about his fortune, neither did his mother. Both spoke in generalties, but the striking thing was the good feeling and affection both evidenced. It was late afternoon when Bernstein dropped in, to be greeted with a kiss by Jackie's 11-year-old brother, Robert and affectionate cries of "hello, Uncle Art" from Robert and Jackie alike. Robert, now 13, lives with the Bernsteins and seems to be just as fond of "Uncle Art."

All of which is just by way of bringing in another side of a presently bitter controversy—a side which sober reflection indicates has a good chance of coming out in the wash of legal procedure.

Definite understandings and court provisions concerning the earnings of acting minors, now being advocated, would have prevented the Coogan unpleasantness and likewise, perhaps, the family bitterness engendered in the Bartholomew, Martha Raye, and other recent affairs.

Even without court influence, the cases of Madge Evans and her mother, and of Anne Shirley and her mother, prove that money doesn't necessarily bring grief in family affairs. The mothers of Anne and Madge, both child actresses who became stars in later life, remain their daughters' close companions and friends.

* * *

Donald Crisp, long an actor but once a top director, is being importuned to direct "The Sea Wolf" but he may not do it. . . . Says the director today, what with supervisors, casting directors and the business office to harp on shooting schedules, doesn't have the free creative hand he once did. . . . Crisp is in that nice spot actors dream about—he doesn't have to take orders unless he wants to, being independently wealthy, and yet he's in demand for character roles.

* * *

What-ever-became-of department: Polly Walters? She left Hollywood after playing telephone girl bits, made a solid hit in "She Loves Me Not" on Broadway, and got movie bids to spare—but never came out here.

* * *

Overheard on street car, sweet young thing speaking: "I heard on the radio last night that darling Tyrone Power is going to marry Janet Gaynor—and ain't it awful, she must be at least 30!"

BIBS UPHELD

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(UP)—Attorney General U. S. Webb has ruled that every baby in California is entitled to a bib. The ruling was the result of an effort by the state director of agriculture to prevent a milk concern from giving every new born baby a bib, alleging it constituted advertizing and therefore a violation of the state milk code. Webb upheld the babies and bibs.

Many boys and girls have a pet of some sort—a dog, cat, canary or tropical fish—perhaps all of them! They will find Bob Becker's new book "Pet Book" a great deal of help. He has divided it into four parts—The Dog—The Cat—Cage-Birds—The Fish Hobby.

The care of the pet is discussed from every angle, his bed, food, training, the illnesses to which he may be subjected, are all taken up. The book has many photographs, the ones of fish are particularly lovely.

Parents will enjoy this book, too, as the author gives good advice on the various breeds. He gives his information in a very readable way, in the hope that people will treat their pets wisely.

SELLING HITS UTILITIES IN MIXED MARKET

Stocks Fail in Attempt to Rally as Light Buying Invades Steels and Rails.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Light buying of steels and rails offset to some extent selling of utilities in today's stock market.

The list attempted a quiet rally at the opening, but it failed to get very far and trends were well mixed near the second hour. Activity was about on par with yesterday's sluggish proceedings.

Fractionally ahead were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, International Harvester, Anaconda, Curtiss-Wright "A," and Du Pont.

Behind were North American, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse, General Electric, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Deere, J. I. Case, Texas Corporation, and American Smelting.

Bonds enjoyed selective advances. Commodities were quiet and uneven. Week-end trade reviews provided scant comfort for market analysts.

For the country as a whole, Dun & Bradstreet estimated retail distribution was unchanged to 3 per cent under last week and from 5 to 12 per cent less than the comparable period a year ago. Wholesale volumes were placed at from 8 to 20 per cent below the 1937 week.

PUTS 'SANDBAG' IN COMPROMISE

Gas Company Makes New Rate Offer as Council Gives Own Bill 1st Reading.

with 60.7 cents at present, and the 10,000-foot consumer would pay 60.5 cents, as compared with 57.5 cents, as at present.

Lower Than First Offer.

However, the company's latest proposal is lower than the first one it submitted to the utilities committee. That rate, a counter-proposal to the committee's own plan, which would have reduced rates under the present figures, proposed a rate of 74 cents per thousand feet for the 5,000-foot user.

Members of council presented a solid front in opposition to that proposal.

The ordinance to be presented tonight calls for a three-year contract, and will be submitted by Porch. No formal contract ordinance is expected to be submitted by the gas company tonight, and Mead said he did not expect to attend the meeting.

The contract will only receive a first reading tonight. Second and final readings are expected to be given at called meetings, probably at intervals of a week, Porch indicated.

After passage by council, it will be submitted to the gas company for approval or rejection. The company will have 30 days in which to decide whether to accept or reject it. Should it do the latter, it must appeal to the state utilities commission.

There the company would have to prove that the rate did not provide a sufficient return to the company, and the city would have to prove that the rate was sufficient.

In the meantime the present rate would continue in effect.

When E. M. Tharp, general manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, announced last week that the company would seek a higher rate, he asserted that the present Mansfield contract had been an "extreme compromise" and that the company could not make money on it.

I BE A BILLIONAIRE ON SHARK ISLAND
YES, GOODY, GOODY!
BUT WE CAN'T GET ORF'A SHARK ISLAND
WHY NOT?
ON ACCOUNT OF THE SHARKS TEAR UP THE BOATS
ALL WE KIN DO IS STAY HERE AN' TRADE THE SHARKS MORE HAM-BURGERS FOR MORE PEARLS
WE ARE HERE FOR LIFE?
YAS, LIFE!
DID YOU SAY LIFE, MR. POOPDECK PAPPY?
THA'S WHAT I SEZ, WIMPY

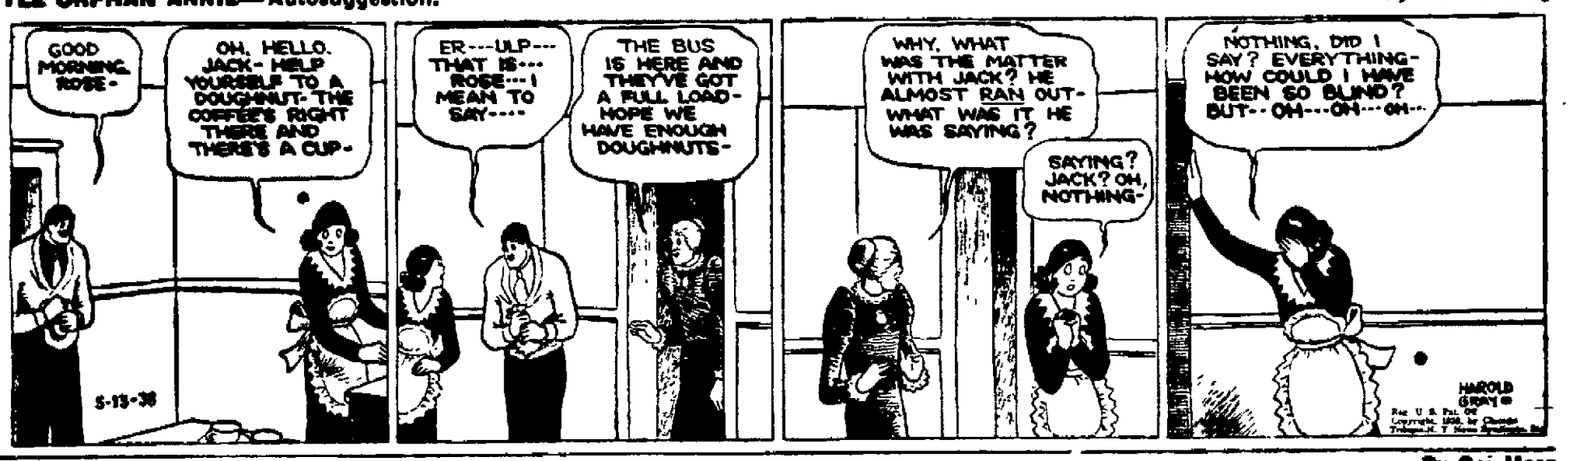
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Autosuggestion. By Harold Gray



GOOD MORNING, ROSE-
OH, HELLO, JACK- HELP YOURSELF TO A DOUGHNUT- THE COFFEE'S RIGHT THERE AND THERE'S A CUP-
5-13-38
ER---ULP--- THAT IS--- ROSE---I MEAN TO SAY----
THE BUS IS HERE AND THEY'VE GOT A FULL LOAD- HOPE WE HAVE ENOUGH DOUGHNUTS-
WHY, WHAT WAS THE MATTER WITH JACK? HE ALMOST RAN OUT- WHAT WAS IT HE WAS SAYING?
SAYING? JACK? OH, NOTHING-
NOTHING, DID I SAY? EVERYTHING- HOW COULD I HAVE BEEN SO BLIND? BUT--OH---OH---OH---

CHAPTER IV.

A man who would stoop to a trick like that wouldn't stop at anything. Rommy wouldn't see anything funny about it and she was far from being in his good graces, now. She almost wished he had fired her on account of that wretched letter.

If Mr. Odell had been staying at Rommy's house, it was odd that the word hadn't gotten around sooner. Private lives had little chance in Norwood. Mrs. Gates must have learned the news from Mrs. Kime. The two were rather intimate. Little chance that the news would prove untrue.

* * *

When Hiliary went downstairs to a late breakfast, she fancied somehow that the town would wear a different air, an atmosphere of expectancy. Or something. But Norwood, or that part of it visible from the front porch, seemed wrapped up in its customary Sabbath calm. Even Mrs. Layne was not sufficiently impressed by the news to refer to it again. She must have told all she knew in the first place. And, besides, she was giving most of her attention to Muriel who still wore the sad, abstracted air her younger sister had predicted.

Muriel Layne was a sweet-faced young woman of 29 with a patient expression in her brown eyes. Norwood, particularly its feminine element, was divided in its opinion regarding Muriel. Her childhood sweetheart, George Caldwell, had displayed more initiative than many of the town's young men and decided upon the life of an aviator. Some three years ago, when a mishap forced him to qualify for membership in the Caterpillar club, his parachute had failed to function. Since that time, Muriel made it a custom to call at intervals upon George's widowed mother for, what Hiliary privately styled, a "memory-greening session." The romantic element admired her exceedingly for her steadfast devotion to her only love. Others thought it high time for her to forget it and at least two men had attempted unobtrusively to assist in the process. With no success whatever.

Hiliary declined an invitation to accompany her mother and sister to church. Monday might prove a cataclysmic day, but there was no harm in one looking one's best and Hiliary's favorite dress needed washing and ironing.

* * *

She was still perspiring over the ironing board early in the afternoon when Wilbur Grant and his car appeared with an invitation to ride. Wilbur was a machinist at the mill, a young man who was favorably looked upon as being "steady." Hiliary conceded that he was nice enough, but he was rather too serious. So much so that he narrowly escaped being...well, just a little dumb. And the last several times they had gone out together, Wilbur had persisted in bringing the conversation around to his prospects at the mill. To his way of thinking, they were pretty good. But Hiliary wasn't particularly interested.

Today, she did not so much as see him, sending word by her mother that she wasn't presentable and was planning to stay at home. Whereupon, Wilbur ventured to switch the invitation to Muriel and received another turndown. Sadly sweet but firm, Young Griffith Layne, lolling in the porch swing with a magazine, made a friendly offer to pinchhit as the afternoon's girl friend and was accepted, but without enthusiasm.

"The old handy man," he grinned, as he stooped to graze his mother's cheek with a kiss. "Look for me when you see me."

When Hiliary left for the office Monday morning, she looked very attractive in her dress of green linen, although a trifle pensive. Two blocks from the house, Hiliary gave a sigh at the sight of Olive Case waiting on the corner. Olive was a short, plump girl with lively black eyes and an equally active tongue.

"Hi, Larry!" she greeted blithely. "I was waiting for you. Say! Who was the guy in the red canoe Saturday afternoon? We saw you climb in and go for a ride. But none of us recognized the canoe."

"He was a stranger," Hiliary explained with elaborate carefulness. "Visiting around here, some place or other."

"Did you thumb him?"

"No!" I went out farther than I intended and I was getting tired. He wanted to know if I didn't want to climb in and rest. I did."

"Well, you sure had a nice long rest! What was his name?"

Hiliary for an instant was tempted to invent a name or pretend that she didn't know. But that might make matters more complicated, and she was a little curious to see if the name would mean anything to Olive.

"Odell....or something like that," she returned indifferently.

"Was he good-looking, Larry?" Apparently the name didn't mean anything.

"I don't think the Hollywood scouts would lose any sleep over him. There comes Mary Ellen. Let's wait for her. "Fortunately, Mary Ellen had not been one of the bathing party and the conservation took a casual turn that lasted until the office was reached.

A number of the staff, girls mostly, were at their desks making ready for the day's work or conversing in undertones. Hiliary was quick to sense that a subdued atmosphere hung over the big room. One of the clerks, coming from the vault with a looseleaf ledger under either arm, obliged the three new arrivals with a guarded warning.

"Soft pedal everything. Old Rommy's down already." She nodded at a closed door whose glass panel bore the word, "PRIVATE." "He's got somebody in there with him," the informant went on, "or else he's reading out loud to himself. Steady stream."

* * *

Hiliary swallowed a little lump in her throat as she followed her mates to the women's rest and locker room. The man in the private office with the boss was that Clayton Odell. The dreaded moment was not far off, now. A little gleam came into her gray eyes.

The momentous tidings were reserved for Matilda Harrison, Wardlaw's middle-aged and efficient stenographer, who would have been his confidential secretary, had the old gentleman ever taken anybody into his confidence. As it was, she was better informed about office affairs and changes than anyone else and was generally looked to as a bureau of information. When the strident sound of a buzzer summoned her to the private office, she answered it with her usual poise.

Ten minutes later she reappeared in the main office, her thin face flushed.

"Girls!" she whispered shrilly as she passed a group of desks, one of which Hilary occupied. "Guess what! We've got a new assistant boss or something . . . Mr. Wardlaw's nephew! He's the best-looking thing you ever saw . . . made me think of Robert Taylor. Don't stop me. I'm going to write a bulletin and put it on the board."

While her fingers executed the nimble task, the news flashed the length and breadth of the room. A dozen pairs of curious eyes watched Matilda's worried face as she wrote, observed her tear the completed sheet from the machine and scan it with an anxious air. After one nervous erasure and correction, she snatched a box of thumbtacks from the top drawer of her desk and scurried over to the bulletin board that hung alongside the main entrance door from the hall. Olive Case left her chair and tip-toed stealthily in the same direction, peering feverishly under Miss Harrison's lean and upraised arms.

A moment later, she was back at her desk gathering up a sheaf of invoices to give her next trip the guise of a bona fide errand. It took her straight to Hilary Layne's desk where she leaned down to whisper grimly in the latter's ear:

"Robert Taylor me eye! His name's Odell! You . . . cat! Wait for me at lunch!"

Thereafter, the door of Romulus Wardlaw's office became the focus of furtive attention, but it was nearing ten o'clock before it swung open and revealed the mill owner leaning on his cane. He looked smaller than ever in comparison with the tall young man at his heels, a man whose blue eyes traveled over the room and regarded its occupants without a trace of embarrassment. When her turn came, Hilary met his gaze with an air of stony indifference, conscious that she was being watched from at least one other quarter. There was not the slightest change in Odell's expression when his eyes encountered hers.

Very decent of him, the girl admitted grudgingly as she turned her attention to her work. On the other hand, he would hardly have dared to risk any sign of recognition.

That would have been a little too fresh.

After giving his new assistant time for a cursory glance about the office, Wardlaw tapped his way to a rear door that opened into one of the machine rooms. Whereat a subdued buzzing broke out among the desks. Those who were near enough to risk a trip to the board hastily absorbed the notice there and passed the details along. "Odell . . . Odell . . . Odell." Hiliary told herself that it was the most unpleasant news she ever had heard.

* * *

When its owner appeared, some 20 minutes later, he came through the same door but was alone. He stood looking about irresolutely, hands thrust in the pockets of his white flannel trousers. His attention seemed suddenly to be directed to a long line of steel filing cases than ran almost the length of one wall and he strolled slowly past their trim ranks.

"Oh, Miss Harrison," he remarked, coming to a halt beside her desk and smiling down at her in a friendly fashion. Ears of near neighbors were strained attentively, as he continued:

"I would like to get a general line on the office filing system. Do you suppose whoever has charge of it could give me a few minutes of their time?"

"Of course, Mr. Odell! Certainly. Our Miss Layne has general charge. Oh, Miss Layne! A moment please . . ."

Hiliary left her desk and came forward slowly, chin lifted, a red spot showing in either cheek.

(To Be Continued.)

FILL VACANCIES

County Auditor and Recorder Name New Deputies.

Two vacancies in the staffs in the county auditor's and county recorder's offices had been filled today with the appointment of Miss Margaret Cumberworth of Shelby and Miss Mary Woerth of Mansfield as clerks.

Miss Cumberworth will succeed Miss Marjorie Kennedy of Shelby in the auditor's office and Miss Woerth will fill the vacancy left by the death of Miss Nelle O'Donnell, deputy recorder for a number of years. Miss Kennedy resigned recently to be married.

For the past four years Miss Cumberworth has been employed in the federal resettlement office in the county. She will move to the auditor's department May 27. Miss Woerth is already at work in the recorder's office.

MONEY SAVING PRICES ON TIRES!

No Trade-Ins — No Discounts — No Free Tubes — No Bunk

The Prices I Quote on Tires and Tubes are NET PRICES.

I make no allowances for trade-ins. I give no discounts from artificial "list" prices. I do not have "2 for 1" sales. I do not give "free" tubes

Anyone can do any or all of these things if he raises his prices on his new tires. but, I think most people are bright enough to understand they cannot get something for nothing.

Junk tires are worth about a HALF A CENT per pound. You can get this amount for your old tires just as well as I can, but if you insist on a trade-in allowance I will pay you 1½c per pound for your old tires! Don't let anyone "kid" you into thinking they are paying you more than your old tires are worth!

I firmly believe that the prices I am quoting on new tires and tubes are the lowest in America, quality for quality. I show my faith in the quality of my tires by selling them on the basis of a definite number of month's use. If my tires fail to give you the length of service I claim for them, you are entitled to an adjustment in proportion to the length of service you actually received.

The only thing for you to decide is whether or not I will make good my promise. The answer to that is, for 50 years I HAVE made good on every promise.

I have over a million and a half customers. THEY have faith in me—in my prices—in my merchandise—and in my promises. They know that if for any reason, a customer of mine is dissatisfied, I make good.

There is no hocus-pocus in my tire prices. I quote you the lowest prices obtainable for tires and tubes of equal quality. Compare my prices and my TIME guarantee, and decide for yourself.

I sell tires and tubes to you on Time Payments, if you desire, and I add only 6% to the price for this accommodation.

If you think my way of doing business is fair and square to everyone—if you want to be sure of the price you are actually paying for your tires and tubes—if you want to know in advance how many months of service you are going to get out of your tires, so that you can figure the minimum cost per month, then come to my store and get your tires and tubes. Do not let a lot of "sideshow" methods blind you to the real facts about tire prices and tire values.

Jim Brown 4-Ply Sterling Tires are unconditionally guaranteed against defects in materials and workmanship and to give you 12 months of service. If I fail to replace any tire which does not give you this service with a new tire charging you only for the length of service you received.

12 OR 18 MONTHS SERVICE GUARANTEED

And remember this—when I guarantee 12 or 18 month's service I am almost positive you will get a lot MORE service than I guarantee. I could not afford to establish these guarantees on hopes or wishes, but I did base them on the actual results car owners have secured. Come to Jim Brown's Store when you need tires and you will get real bargains and a square deal.

Suits Against Republic Steel Follow Riot Deaths of 10.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Four suits have been filed against Republic Steel corporation asking a total of $260,000 for injuries suffered in the Memorial day steel strike rioting at Chicago last year during which 10 persons were killed.

Attorney William Thomas said 24 other suits, bringing total damages asked to approximately $800,000, would be filed later.

Named defendants were Republic Steel corporation; its chairman, Tom Girdler; James Williams of Cleveland, chief of all Republic special police; James Williams, superintendent of the South Chicago mill; and Duane Heib, captain of Republic's South Chicago police.

Thomas said he represented estates of all 10 persons killed or fatally injured in the riot. The suits were filed in common pleas court.

Twelve of the 34 mineral springs at Vichy, France, belong to the state.

It's a small world after all—almost too small to accommodate Hitler and Mussolini at the same time.

A psychologist says that modern women are crying less—probably shedding tears only when smoke gets in their eyes.

Now that Humboldt's "cold days of May" theory has again been vindicated, a resumption of spring weather may be expected any day—with straw hats optimistically scheduled for tomorrow.

High School Age Dangerous

NOW that traffic fatalities are being regarded more seriously, time is being given for closer study of contributing causes and of age groups in which the largest percentage of accidents occur.

Automobile drivers of high school age are involved in ten times as many fatal accidents, per miles driven, as drivers between the ages of 45 and 50, according to an analysis of road accidents published today by the American Magazine.

"Furthermore, the high-school record has been getting worse," the magazine states. "In the last eleven years there has been a 25 per cent decrease in traffic deaths of children 5 to 9 years old, and only a slight increase in those 10 to 14. That is, the safety campaigns to teach children to watch out for themselves in the streets are having their effect.

"But in the ages 15 to 19, the high-school age, there has been in this same period an increase of 130 per cent in traffic deaths. The reason is obvious. Fifteen is about the age when children begin to drive."

Pointing out that this age of greatest danger is also the best age for teaching motorcar operation, the article urges wide extension of such work as that now being done by Amos Neyhart, former professor of industrial management at Pennsylvania state college, who is heading up a national program for training high-school students to drive.

Nearly 200 high-schools are now using this plan of instruction, the article states, and this summer 60 to 70 colleges will have courses for high-school teachers in the technique of teaching automobile operation.

Where Beauty Is Emphasized.

WITH Van Wert looking forward to its famous annual peony festival, to be held on June 8 and 9, Holland, Mich., this week-end steps into prominence with its tulip festival, which will attract thousands of visitors to that beautiful little city through all of next week.

Fortunate indeed are those cities which, once each year, can concentrate the interest of their citizens on some such beautification program as is represented by peony-growing in Van Wert and tulips in Holland, Mich.

Those thrifty Netherlanders who make up 90 per cent of the population of the city of Holland, brought with them a number of the customs and traits of their native land—including a love for tulips which are nowhere more beautiful.

Picturesque ceremonies of the festival include a proclamation by the burgomeister, after which the main street is scrubbed spotlessly clean by the young people. After the street has been inspected and found immaculate, there is a costume parade, followed by a week of festivities patterned after those which take place in the Netherlands at this season of the year.

If introduction of customs of the homeland could always be depended upon to be of as much community benefit as the Holland, Mich., residents display in their thrift, cleanliness and appreciation of beauty, America's "melting-pot" problems would be much simplified.

What a Whale of a Difference!

ACROSS the street a coat of paint is transforming an old brick building into a neat-appearing structure.

Elsewhere in sight are a number of old buildings which could be greatly improved in appearance by painting, making needed repairs and re-lettering signs.

On Main street the north wall of a building, exposed by tearing down the old Vonhof hotel some years ago, continues as an eyesore because of the huge splotches of plaster that disfigure it—an example of untidiness that is subjected to much unfavorable comment by residents and visitors.

This is the logical time of year for clean-up, paint-up, fix-up work. A survey of Mansfield's business sections reveals a number of fine opportunities for activities along these lines.

Business Formula.

THE DIFFERENCE in spirit and attitude shown by the last Chamber of Commerce convention in Washington has been noticeable, and there was a greater change underneath, perhaps, than appeared on the surface. It was evidence of a growing determination among business leaders to depend less on the government, to spend less effort fighting it, and to devote their energies directly to doing all they could for themselves.

This attitude greatly impressed Washington columnists, particularly Paul Mallon, who describes the Chamber's "inside program" as one of "self-help, self-discipline and self-regulation."

It sounds a good deal like the formula for individuals in one of Tennyson's poems, "Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control," which three alone, said the poet, "lead life to sovereign power." He meant, of course, not autocracy but highest efficiency. It is a sound formula, whether in poetry or business.

Honorary Postage Stamps.

THE Swiss government has at last granted a long-standing request of the League of Nations and the International Labor Organization for special postage stamps bearing pictures of the new league palace and the I. L. O. building. The stamps will be issued throughout the country during May. Thereafter they may be had on request.

Former League of Nations supporters who have been troubled by apparent League disintegration and failure in the last year or two may wonder whether there is enough life left in the two organizations to give the stamps anything more than memorial interest.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

IT IS LATE at night, I have been at several meetings, I really should not be writing a column. (I hear a chorus of agreement.)

I am reminded of a time when once I was a critic of a certain part of the newspaper business. I attended meetings of editors, spoke and agitated against that part of the business. I was sure the management was wrong.

A few years later I was part of the management. Then, I retorted in anger to my previous self. I had been wrong.

But the critic often is right. Thus I do sometimes attend meetings these days. Deep within me I enjoy the critic, the revolutionary, and wish him to drive the remainder of us on.

The hope of all of us lies in the constructive revolutionary.

ABLE MEN

The working newspaperman is becoming an able debater. He offers sound logic, he is fearless of the future—and he suffers few delusions.

Within a few years we shall begin to see great changes in our newspapers. The present meeting of men and management will create a new force—a progressive force that will be an important development in the newspaper world.

* * *

WILL TRUTH PREVAIL?

The average newspaper worker of today often is a pessimist (or, rather, a realist) as to the question, Will truth prevail?

Thinking of that, I turned to Henry George's summing up in "Progress & Poverty:"

"The truth that I have tried to make clear will not find easy acceptance. If that could be, it would never have been obscured. But it will find friends—those who will toil for it; suffer for it; if need be, die for it. This is the power of Truth.

"Will it at length prevail? Ultimately, yes. But in our own times, or in times of which any memory of us remains, who shall say?

"For the man who, seeing the want and the misery, the ignorance and brutishness caused by unjust social institutions, sets himself, in so far as he has strength, to right them, there is disappointment and bitterness. So it has been of old time. So is it even now. But the bitterest thought—and it sometimes comes to the best and bravest—is that of the hopelessness of the effort, the futility of the sacrifice. To how few of those who sow the seed is it given to see it grow, or even with certainty to know that it will grow.

"Let us not disguise it. Over and over again has the standard of Truth and Justice been raised in this world. Over and over has it been trampled down—oftentimes in blood. If they are weak forces that are opposed to Truth, how should Error so long prevail? If Justice has but to raise her head to have Injustice flee before her, how should the wall of the oppressed so long go up?

"But for those who see Truth and would follow her; for those who recognize Justice and would stand for her, success is not the only thing. Success! Why, Falsehood has often that to give; and Injustice often has that to give. Must not Truth and Justice have something to give that is their own by proper right—theirs in essence, and not by accident? ? . . ."

DON'T OPEN THAT GATE!

Another Federal Building Spree

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Washington shortly is to start on another spree of government building.

Funds for this program hardly can be provided at the current session of congress but already it is agreed that more federal construction is urgently needed and the cash undoubtedly will be forthcoming at the next session.

The idea is that more office room for Uncle Sam not only is required but that the program will furnish a deal of employment. To be sure, the actual building will be concentrated in the capital but it is pointed out that the raw material for it will have to come from here, there and neary everywhere throughout the country, creating jobs in all directions.

* * *

GROWING!

This reasoning may be perfectly sound.

Nevertheless it does call attention to the fact that Uncle Samuel's demands for his government's accommodation appear to be well-nigh insatiable.

Illustratively, when I first saw Washington in 1915, the state, war and navy departments were housed in a single structure—the so-called State, War and Navy building. Today it is known as the State and War building. However, the state department occupies nearly the whole of it. The war department retains only a few offices. The bulk of its activities center in the Munitions building, a vast, much more newly built edifice. The navy department has been evicted entirely to quarters of its own, adjoining Munitions.

* * *

WAR-TIME EXPANSION

Of course the government expanded enormously in war-time and built furiously to shelter itself.

The Munitions and Navy buildings are pretty good pieces of workmanship. They are not ornamental but both are substantial, convenient and tolerably commodious.

Plenty of other buildings (whole city blocks of them) consisted of little more than lath and plaster. Signs were plastered all over them, warning against smoking. They were not necessary. Any man who would have scratched a match in one of these shacks would do so in a powder magazine. Several of them did burn up and were gone before firemen could arrive.

* * *

NO SHRINKAGE

The supposition was that the government would shrink right after the war, permitting such piles of kindling wood to be razed immediately.

But the government did not shrink. It expanded instead.

That being the case the war-time "tempo's" (temporaries") did need to be rebuilt. It was quite justifiable for the Hoover administration to get at it, as it did about the time its depression set in, largely for "pump priming" purposes.

* * *

THE COST.

There also was complaint that the government was being compelled to pay excessive rentals for some of its accommodations.

For example, the justice and commerce departments did not occupy "tempo's." They were adequately housed, but only as tenants. The argument was that they ought to have government-owned buildings, thus saving money.

So the Hoover folk launched their building program which has lasted on into the Roosevelt regime.

I do not know exactly what it has run into but Congressman Louis Ludlow of Indiana doped it out some time ago that the total amounted to a lot more than the cost of the Louisiana Purchase (Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Oklahoma and parts of Alabama, Mississippi, Minnesota, Colorado and Wyoming) plus the cost of Alaska.

* * *

NOW—BUILD MORE!

Now the proposition is to build some more.

The "tempo's" very properly were torn down, but the present plan is to build again for the war and navy departments—and they are not confined in "tempo's," but are well, if not ornamentally, quartered.

It may also have been good policy to move the government out of rented quarters. Yet these rented quarters have not been abandoned. As fast as a governmentally rented building has been vacated by a government department or sub-division another one has moved in.

Indeed, vacancies have not been nearly numerous enough to go around. The government has leased every available new one in Washington, and more, as far away as Baltimore.

In short:

Is there real estate enough in Washington to give Uncle Sam standing room?

You and Your Nation's Affairs

"Jobs For All"—Not Easy.

By ERNEST M. PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science.

A recent dispatch from Washington told of a plan to create jobs for everybody. It was credited to Harry L. Hopkins but since it was somewhat vague we need not assume tht Mr. Hopkins was responsible. However, we may with profit comment briefly upon the idea, for it is one commonly held.

There is no reason for dismissing it abruptly on the ground that it is fantastic. New ideas are often treated that way merely because they are new. In some countries unemployment has been largely eliminated. In the United States there is bitter resentment over the fact that perhaps 11,000,000 persons are out of work. Any proposal that everybody be given a job if it comes from an intelligent or responsible source and if it is accompanied by a carefully worked out plan should be soberly examined.

In this case no plan has been announced beyond very general proposals for a large relief appropriation by Congress. We must accordingly confine ourselves to very general comments.

First, it is too soon to be sure that the elimination of unemployment in such countries as Germany and Russia is permanent. For the latter country we have little to guide us beyond general assertions. From Germany come estimates that appear as precise as can well be expected from any country. But even if we accept them at their face value, it must be remembered that Germany is in the "prosperity" phase of the business cycle. It may be that there will be no later reaction, but it is worse than careless to assume that unemployment is permanently ended.

Next to be noticed is that the countries which boast of having eliminated unemployment are ruled by dictatorial governments. Our modern life is so highly complex that we cannot avoid changes in the demand for labor in any given industry. Orders for goods fluctuate and plants cannot be operated with entire regularity. A dictatorial government is the only kind that can divert labor quickly and firmly from places where it is not needed to other places where it is needed.

Third to be remembered is that the people of the United States are strongly opposed to such strict government controls. A few tourists returning from Italy may talk of trains that run on time but very few of them long for a Mussolini to take control here. Our traditions, our sentiments and our better judgments are all against extreme centralization of power. Also the United States is a much larger and more diversified area than Italy or Germany and with a more intricate economic organization than that of Russia.

Given these and other limitations, what might be done here? If Congress should appropriate sufficiently large sums of money and our elaborate organizations such as PWA and WPA were enlarged accordingly, presumably all of the unemployed could be given something to do. Many of the tasks assigned would be ridiculed, especially by the political opposition, but this is to be expected and many of the criticisms would doubtless be unfair. Yet work could be found or invented.

But two consequences could be expected. One is that it would be impossible to plan tasks that would be fitted into our intricate life in such a way that the relief would be continuous. Public opinion in this country is against a very rapid growth in government ownership and operation. Although the government is involved in business and this tendency is increasing, we shall probably rely chiefly upon private ownership and enterprise. Unless opportunities for private employment grow and grow rapidly, the employment supported by government must be continued indefinitely or we may expect a serious collapse when government aid is withdrawn.

The second consequence is financial. "Jobs for all" would mean heavy expenditures. These would not be met by taxation but by further bond issues. Government credit is not at present weak if the test is the rate of interest which the government has to pay or the price of government securities in the market. Nor do taxes in the United States take so large a percentage of the national income as in many other countries. But taking the situation as it is, rather than imagining what it might be, taxes cannot be very rapidly raised. Any considerable increase in our public debts—federal, state and local—should be viewed with concern.

This still leaves us with the fact that some eleven million are unemployed. Such devices as labor exchanges, unemployment insurance and dismissal wages are not adequate. It is more probable that we shall have large sums appropriated for relief or for providing jobs. But this will not bring permanent employment and government finances will become even more involved.

Where Have You Gone, America?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Dedicated to Henry Ford because, whether one agrees with his methods or not, he loves, he lives, he fights to save—THE REAL AMERICA!)

DUSK—Dusk stretching its tunneled blue down the long, elm-bordered street. And, through the dusk, small points of warm, bright flame . . . the sound of children laughing at some game . . . the happy murmuring of wives as they rocked and sewed . . . the boasts of men in back-yard plots as they picked and hoed—

Dusk . . . and the sound of families, laughing as they worked.

That was America in 1890 . . . 1905 and 10—Bright clumps of rhubarb, radishes and beets, turnips and carrots, onions and Swiss chard . . . the clink of hoes . . . the smell of dark, wet earth in every yard. From Cape Cod to the strand of setting sun, each family making its own food when daily jobs were done—

And now?

Bread lines on every hand—

But try and find a "family garden" in the land!

And so, today, a long, lean man, with memories in his eyes, goes down and speaks to Washington—speaks simple words, and wise—plain words that seem the answer to this land's spreading need . . . plain words which, once upon a time, were every Yankee's creed—

"Yes, we have trouble," says Mr. Ford. "Yes, we have lay-offs in our plants because many workers do not get high enough wages to buy . . . and unless workers can buy, merchants cannot sell . . . and it all goes back to a vicious circle of Depression.

"But Industry cannot ever settle the problem alone. Machines cannot settle it. There must be a back-to-the-farm movement. We must go back to the old plan where men made food for themselves while the factories provided money—and even if the factories stopped providing.

"WE MUST STOP BEING SLAVES TO MACHINES! WE MUST STOP BELIEVING THAT THE MACHINE IS OUR ONLY SOURCE OF LIVING. THE LAND IS AS MUCH OUR SOURCE OF LIFE TODAY AS IT EVER WAS. THE MACHINE MAY PAY US . . . BUT THE LAND MUST FEED US. ONCE WE ALL KNEW, AND USED, THAT FACT. NOW WE HAVE FORGOTTEN IT. WE MUST REMEMBER IT AGAIN . . . WE MUST USE IT AGAIN—"

So said Henry Ford, speaking plainly, simply, to the President of these United States . . . speaking of the sane, simple, self-respecting plan which all America once followed—

Children laughing and playing games in the dusk . . . women murmuring as they rocked and sewed . . . men boasting of their crops as they bent over rows of beans and peas, summer squash and corn.

"THE BACK-YARD GARDEN"—once that kept all America going, even though governments wobbled and industries skidded. Once a man could turn to his own bit of land for his family's food, even if his pocketbook were empty. But today—

HOW MANY MEN, TODAY, ARE WILLING TO WORK IN THE BACK YARD WHEN THE DAILY CHORES ARE DONE? ARE MANY WIVES WILLING TO ROCK AND SEW ON THE FRONT PORCH WHEN THE QUIET DUSK COMES DOWN?

Something has happened to us Americans . . . something sickly, something blighting. We quote and rave over our Constitution. But the simple truth is—We are not satisfied with those conditions upon which that Constitution was based. We are not content with simplicity and healthy monotony, with that self-respect and that independence which are as the fruit of one's own hand.

We are restless, discontented . . . the poison of machine-made ambition and machine-made amusement creeps through us . . . we are looking to wheels and gadgets, rather than to our own sweat, labor and faith, for power and pleasure.

Some may blame Mr. Ford himself for these machines which have, at once, freed us and enslaved us. Some will point to the thousands of men driving flivvers in the evening where they might be hoeing carrots.

But Mr. Ford is not to blame. Our own lack of self-control—our own restlessness — are to blame. Flivvers have not ruined us any more than egg-beaters have ruined us. It is our own irresponsibility . . . our own impulsiveness . . . our own tendency to go to extremes which has ruined us.

It is true—we can ride in the evenings, now, as our dads could not do in 1902. But we can also dig in the garden BEFORE and AFTER we ride—if we wish. WE CAN GO BACK TO THE LAND FOR OUR HELP AND OUR HEALING—IF WE WISH.

Machines have not wrecked us. Big Business has not bankrupted us. WE ARE BEING RUINED—WE ARE BEING WRECKED, BY OUR OWN SELF-INDULGENCE, OUR OWN LAZINESS, OUR OWN CHILDISH IMPULSE TO PLAY HOOKEY FROM ADULT RESPONSIBILITY.

Dusk—

But the lights no longer shine—and the streets no longer ring with the laughter of children or the murmuring of sewing women or the movements of working men—

WHERE HAVE YOU GONE, AMERICA?

And what is happening to that tangled, neglected plot which was once your fruitful home?

(Copyright, 1938)

Timely Editorial

Be Fair to the Fisherman.

Those critics who say that President Roosevelt's fishing trips in war ships cost the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars may be over-censorious. It is true that the operation of cruisers and destroyers is tremendously expensive. The bill for fuel, food, pay of officers and crew and other expenses runs up into six figures in a few days, but most of this expense is continuous. It would be incurred whether the president—the commander-in-chief of the army and navy—were aboard ship or ashore.

However, we like to think about Herbert Hoover sitting on a log in his Rapidan camp and good old Grover Cleveland fishing from a row boat at Middle Bass island. They seem to fit better into the American picture of plain folks having a good time at inexpensive, simple life vacationing.—Toledo Blade.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I was standing in front of the Graybar building, biting my lip and wondering what I would write about today, when an advertising executive of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea company came by.

It was Harry North, a former editor of Black Mask, a magazine devoted to horror stories. His current hobbies including raising monkeys at Westport, Conn., and collecting old lamps. It is Harry's theory that most monkeys die in North America because people kill them with kindness. They keep them in hot houses in the belief that they are duplicating the African climate. This, Harry feels, is unwise. His method is to immunize the monks to cold, so that when winter comes they can go out into zero weather, if they want to, with perfect safety.

It seems, however, that the rearing of simians has its complexities. Twice Harry has been compelled to perform Caesarian operations. But there is one feat he can point to that has not been duplicated by anybody. He is the only man in this country, so I am informed, who has successfully raised three generations of monkeys on a northern farm.

* * *

AS FOR his lamps, there is an old barn and a house on his place at Westport which are filled with curious, ancient old lanterns and lamps. They represent, when you get down to it, the whole history of lighting. Some men collect stamps, some old neckties, others coins. I suppose there are many who like to collect old lamps, too.

Expatriates returning from the shadow of the Coliseum report that Count Rossi, the Italian beverage and speedboat king, is building two 12-litre whizzers for a series of four gold cup races—one to be held at Venice, another in Germany, the third at Detroit, and the last, the President's race, at Washington, D. C.

The slim, convivial Italian was over here last summer with a couple of fast craft which he named for two mountains in captured Ethiopia. I talked with him briefly and he was enthusiastic about racing in America. It is his opinion that horseracing, football and baseball combined are not half so interesting as a roaring motorboat skimming a lake surface at, say, 90 miles an hour.

* * *

VASTLY interested in these gold cup races is Mrs. John M. L. Rutherford of Sands Point and Miami, who is unquestionably the best woman driver in America. Her husband, Jack Rutherford, has a surprise suicide boat, the Juno, picked up for a song and equipped with an old Cadillac motor. Last year at Washington he tossed her into the water, just to see if it would run, and proceeded to break existing world records.

I am told these "suicide" boats were built for the Chinese. They were constructed to carry a lot of weight on the bow, probably a torpedo, and the idea was to drive the launch, loaded with explosives, into the side of enemy warships. Rutherford picked his up for $1,500. When you consider that 12-litre racing boats cost between $20,000 and $30,000, you begin to appreciate that broad, satisfied smile on Rutherford's face.

NEED NUMBERS

Students Getting Jobs Urged to Open Security Accounts.

Students who intend to take temporary or part-time employment during the summer should file applications for old age insurance by obtaining social security numbers now, R. C. Mish, manager of the Mansfield field office of the Social Security Board advised today.

Applications are available at the local office in the Richland Trust building, Mish said.

"Every worker under the age of 65 engaged in a commercial or an industrial occupation must have a social security account card," he pointed out.

He said that some employers refuse to hire an applicant who has no account number.

"The account number is evidence that an individual wage record has been set up and all wages earned by the worker are being credited to his account," Mish added. "Failure to report wages means the eventual loss of benefits."

Gretchen Makes First Chute Jump Of Year Sunday

Gretchen Reighard, Mansfield's only woman parachute jumper, will open her season Sunday afternoon when she makes her first jump of the year at the Mansfield airport.

It will be the first jump for Miss Reighard since she suffered head injuries last September when a stiff wind caused her to land in an open coal car near the Canton airport.

She will make the leap from a tri-motored all metal Ford airliner which will be at the airport all day. The plane will be operated by Capt. Arthur Werkhaven, veteran transport pilot, who has more than 4,000 air hours to his credit.

The ship, owned by Major Leslie G. Mulzer of the army reserve air corps, has been in Mansfield before for passenger flights.

Miss Reighard recently purchased two new parachutes for this summer's stunt work and will try out one of them Sunday afternoon. On Sunday, May 22, she will give an exhibition at Lorain.

Tom Manister, who has been employed in Canton, pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support of minor children when arraigned in common pleas court. He was ordered to resume work, pay $15 a month toward support of children and was placed on probation for five years.

Robert Snyder who was indicted on a charge of theft, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Putnam and was placed on probation for three years. He is alleged to have stolen farm implements of the value of $15 from Vernon Crawford, farmer east of Millersburg

Robert Korns, who was also indicted on a charge of stealing in connection with the theft of articles from Crawford, is to be brought into the Juvenile court to plead to the charge.

Milkman 40 Years Retires, His Bell Called Customers

LEXINGTON — J. J. McBride, who sold his milk delivery route in Lexington recently, brought to a close a long career which began more than 40 years ago when he drove a horse and buggy and dispensed milk from a ten-gallon can to customers who provided their own containers.

A bell which he carried, and which was rung frequently summoned those who desired milk to the street as he passed They paid five cents per quart or 25 cents for six quarts.

Through the years that he has served Lexington patrons McBride saw the milk consumption climb from ten gallons per day to the present time when about fifty gallons are delivered daily in the village.

As the years passed the old horse and buggy was succeeded by a regular milk wagon, which in turn gave way some years ago to a truck.

But a horse-drawn vehicle was far superior to a modern motor truck for delivering milk, according to McBride. A good horse could be trained to follow the route and wait for the driver at certain points while house deliveries were being made.

McBride, whose Lexington route was sold to Samuel Kisling, will continue to produce milk. He is now selling his output to a Mansfield distributor.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

ON MY walks across cultivated fields and along hedges, I was much surprised to see how far all crops and wild plants had grown

The heavy growth of wheat stood higher than my knees The second joint in many stalks was visible The wind made broad deep waves as it moved with passing shadows, across the tender green.

The grass field, a mixture of timothy and clover was thick and tall and even It seemed a tempting bed to lie down upon and imbibe its fresh cool atmosphere I could almost touch the green earthy odors rising from the soil

I saw a farmer spraying apple trees, with his tractor attached to a two-wheeler sprayer. It gave a pressure at the nozzle of two hundred pounds I noticed some early trees were too far gone—the calyx end had closed its bracks and the poison could not enter

The strawberry bed by the orchard fence was white with bloom. The flowers were perfect . . . (they would grow fine large berries without wind or bee pollination). Some small green fruit had already formed

Along the hedge I caught the scent of the flowering wild cherry As I came closer I saw the spikes like long white pincers filled evenly with simple flowers

The dandelions along the roadside and in the lawn have changed from the beautiful gold coin to gravish heads of down Already I saw great numbers of these downy wings floating through the air—always bearing a vital seed along

The woods floor, too, has changed Spring beauties droop their heads the trillium which stood a creamy white hangs its withered stem beneath a whorl of leaves and unnoticed by passersby, forms its fruitful seeds. The jack-in-the-pulpit is wasting, too, but later in the summer I will see a stem held proudly with a mass of tempting scarlet berries

It is always interesting to see how plants, with almost human wisdom mature and conceal their offspring

He was reported to have turned down offers of arms and munitions credits in London, insisting that Britain or France also pledge delivery of the war material in China

If he carried out a threat to lead other dissatisfied league members in demands that the league assembly urgently consider recognition of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, British-French hopes of general European appeasement might be seriously delayed or forestalled.

Britain and France yesterday won freedom for league members to recognize the Italian conquest and today Haile Selassie, his battle lost, sadly packed up and left Geneva—an emperor without an empire.

Henlein, bespectacled leader of the Sudeten Germans, was reported to have been invited to London to receive the British view that peaceful settlement of his quarrel with the Czechoslovak government is a requisite for European appeasement

The full import of Henlein's London journey was not known. He has demanded Nazi-style autonomy for the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

BUDAPEST — (NS) — Hungary —pushed into the German sphere of influence during the Hitler-Mussolini talks in Rome—today startled Europe with a purge of Nazi elements in the cabinet.

Also involving a change in the premiership, the cabinet's resignation will be submitted to Regent Nicholas Horthy late today.

Dr. Bela Imredy, minister of economics, is the new premier. He succeeds Koloman Daranyi, leader of the party of national union

The pro-Nazi minister for education, Valentin Homan, is expected to be replaced by Count Paul Teleki, professor of geography in Budapest university.

The new minister of the interior will be Francis Keresztes-Fischer, a Nazi opponent who formerly held the same post

RITES ARE SET

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home for Robert Bryan, 85, who died Thursday at the Crawford county infirmary following a two weeks' illness Burial will be made in the county cemetery

The deceased, a former farm hand in Cranberry township, was unmarried and has no relatives.

JACKSON SUNDAY SCHOOLS MEET

SHELBY — The semi- annual Jackson Township Sunday School association convention will meet at the London Lutheran church, northeast of Shelby, Sunday. The session will open at 2.30 p. m. with Mrs. J. H. Holtz, associate president, in charge.

Rev. J. C. Searle of the Shelby United Brethren church will deliver the principal address. Other pastors taking part will be Rev. D B Young, Shelby Lutheran church, and Rev. J. R. Thomas, Taylortown church

DISCUSSES BOND ISSUE MONDAY

SHELBY — Discussion of the proposed bond issue for the Smiley avenue subway, which will probably be brought before the voters next fall at the primaries, is expected Monday night at the city council session at city hall.

Although no definite amount had been set for the issue as yet, city officials said, that approximately $40,000 would be needed to cross under the Big Four railroad on Smiley avenue, between North Gamble street and Mohican street.

SERVICES TODAY

SHELBY—Funeral services for William Clawson, 55, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack Tuesday at his home in Tiro, were held today from the Tiro Lutheran church in charge of Rev R H. Miller, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Joseph O'Morrow, pastor of the Bellville Lutheran church. Burial was in Oakland cemetery at Tiro.

Walls Tells Hughes Decision on Farm Order 20 Months Behind Department.

handling of cases in general, Wallace wrote that the particular case involved in the decision originated during the Hoover administration under a law signed by President Harding.

It concerned an order reducing commission rates in the Kansas City livestock market.

Chief Justice Hughes wrote the decision Immediately afterward the national labor relations board moved to withdraw several of its orders against large industrial firms

Wallace's letter to the chief justice said in part:

"You will be interested to know that the practice you now recommend, that the examiner conducting the hearing make a report which is available to both parties for exceptions and argument, was adopted by this department about 20 months ago . . .

"I am glad to know that the court has now approved the procedure which the department already had inaugurated."

YACOB THE HIPPO GROWING OLD

Animal Given Name By Hagenbeck, Animal Farmer.

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Yacob, hippopotamus at the Washington park zoo, is three years over the average life span of 25 years.

In the zoo a quarter century, he was imported from Germany after public subscription paid his $2,200 cost. Nameless and homesick, he sulked at the bottom of his tank. Carl Hagenbeck, noted German animal trainer of the day, visited him.

"Yacob, komm 'raus," Hagenbeck commanded, and the hippo emerged, snorting. He has been "Yacob" ever since.

The Dead Sea is 1,300 feet below sea level.

Lay Down Flat Till Tornado Blows Over, Official Says.

TOPEKA, Kas.—(AP)—If a tornado or cyclone catches you too far from the nearest cyclone cellar, make a dash and jump into a ditch or depression.

That's the advice of S. D. Flora, federal meteorologist for Kansas.

A storm cellar or cave is the safest refuge, he says, but it's any port in a prairie "blow" and a depression in the ground where a person may lie flat usually brings the refugee through alive.

Believe Hitler Prepares to Don Robes of 'Emperor'

PARIS HEARS OF DESIRE FOR NAZI DYNASTY

Crown, Sword of Charlemagne in Fuehrer's Possession; Hapsburgs Alarmed.

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—Persistent rumors that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler ultimately intends to climax his Napoleonic career by crowning himself emperor Germany and Austria were revived today.

An unimpeachable authority disclosed to this correspondent that the fuehrer has taken to Berlin from Vienna the crown, sword and other regalia once worn by Charlemagne, greatest of the holy Roman emperors and original co-ordinator of central Europe.

For centuries the relics of Charlemagne had reposed in state in the Austrian capital, treasured as mementoes of one of the greatest reigns known to history. Well-informed authorities could ascribe no reason for Hitler's action other than that at some future date he hopes to cap his nazi career and perhaps perpetuate a brownshirt dynasty by enthroning himself as Adolf I, emperor of Austria and Germany.

Alarms Royal Family.

Most concerned over this startling possibility naturally are the Hapsburgs, whose ancestors ruled Austria for four centuries but who since the German absorption of Austria have been driven from pillar to post by the nazis.

Of the whole Hapsburg family, the largest royal house in Europe and linked by marriage to virtually every present and vanished throne on the continent, only one member of importance seems to have made peace with the nazis. He is the Archduke Anton, who fulfilled family tradition by marrying royalty as the spouse of Princess Ileana of Rumania.

The others have been arrested or exiled by the Hitler regime, or removed themselves from the political picture by marrying commoners. Archduke Otto, the pretender to the throne, is in exile at Steenockerzeel, Belgium, with a warrant charging high treason hanging over his head and preventing him, at least for duration of the nazi regime, ever from entering Austria again.

It is regarded as significant that Hitler lost no time in taking action against any members of the Hapsburg clan that by word, action or mere position of importance might have constituted a threat to his imperialistic domination of his newly-won empire.

Observers point out that there is no reason why the fuehrer should have removed the Charlemagne relics from Vienna unless he intends to make use of them.

Weather or No Weather, Straw Hat Time's Here

Present temperatures to the contrary, tomorrow is the official day when you doff your felt Fedora and don a light and airy chapeau of straw.

Pay no attention to the weather—it has behaved in a manner to merit little consideration — and give that new straw lid a chance to make its formal debut.

There is even a possibility that a deluge of straw hats may have some effect on the weather, and temperatures may return to normalcy. May 15—annually and officially—has long been straw hat day and in normal years the day is pleasantly warm and bright. Falling on Sunday this year, it will be observed tomorrow.

And don't think you can get by with last year's scrappy number. This year rims are wider and crowns lower—but not like the women's, heaven forbid! — and there is openwork in the crowns on many of the new ones. Panamas and leghorns are conservative, with snap brims up in the back or down all around. As for bands, they can be orthodox black or they can be a combination of red and green and blue and yellow.

The importance of the Red Cross highway first aid program was evidenced this week when three "trainees" for Station No. 8 on Park avenue west road were the first to reach the accident in which two Kenton women were injured and their chauffeur killed. The three men, Edgar Neil, John Durkin, and LeRoy Bookwalter, had received three lessons in first aid, but one of those deals with arterial pressure for excessive bleeding. They tore their shirts into bandages and Neil applied pressure to the proper artery in the neck of one woman whose head wounds were gushing blood, and continued to hold the artery until she reached the hospital, an act which undoubtedly saved her life.

Henry Huston, whose anniversary is May 14, and J. H. Gongwer and Herbert Schettler, whose anniversaries are today, began their luncheon dates in 1930 and haven't missed a year since. They rotate at being hosts, with Huston footing the bill today.

A large number of wooden nickels were sold during the Northwest Territory celebration last week, but Walter Brosius, 269½ West Third street, has one that he will treasure for years to come. Brosius purchased one of the first nickels and mailed it to himself, the stamp carrying the postmark of April 26, the day on which the nickels were placed on sale. Then on May 1, he remailed the token. This time the nickel bore the postmark of May 1, the opening day of two-day celebration here. Both stamps used for mailing were the special three-cent stamps issued in commemoration of the founding of the Northwest Territory.

U. S. Agents Get Levine Clue From Missouri Pastor.

KANSAS CITY—(INS)—Federal agents today investigated a report that a boy resembling kidnaped Peter Levine, 12, of New York, had been seen in southwest Missouri.

Dwight Brantley, special agent in charge of the federal bureau of investigation office here, announced that the check-up was in progress.

Sheriff C. S. Wattenbarger, of Lamar, Mo., notified him, Brantley said, that the Rev. Homer C. Murphy, of Haines City, Fla., reported to him the boy attempted to get into his automobile Wednesday night near Milo, Mo., but was restrained by two men who fled with him.

DAVEY'S RELIEF DIGS ANSWERED

Burton, in Appeal for Quick Action, Says Cleveland Did More Than Share.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland today presented an explanation of the city's relief problems and a defense of its relief administration as a plea for quick passage of a program for the state's needy when the legislature meets next week.

The mayor delivered a radio address shortly after meeting with Governor Davey, other city officials and legislative leaders to discuss the $17,000,000 program that will be submitted in whole or in part to the general assembly.

Burton replied to criticism of Cleveland's relief costs with the finding that the average relief allowance is lower there than in all but one of the country's largest cities.

He denied the governor's charge that Cleveland had not contributed any funds toward solution of its problem and claimed that in the last 12 months the city spent $7,126,890.72 for relief, of which the sum state provided only $2,755,000.

He added that the city had contributed $3,000,000 to a $30,000,000 WPA program over a year's period.

"The city of Cleveland has contributed 75 per cent and the state not more than 25 per cent," he said. "It is impossible to continue this ratio of expenditure."

DIES AT AGE 85 IN MEDINA HOME

Body of Mrs. Clementine Howard To Be Returned To City.

Mrs. Clementine Howard, 85, Richland county native, and former Mansfield resident, died Thursday at the Pythian Sister home in Medina. Born in Bellville, May 31, 1852, Mrs. Howard, who spent the greater part of her life in Mansfield, moved to Medina eight years ago.

Surviving are two nieces, Mrs. Harry Farber of Mansfield and Mrs. Ella Flaharty of Mt. Vernon. She was a member of the First M. E. church and Pythian Sisters.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in charge of Rev. E. G. Corwin, assisted by the Pythian Sisters. Burial will be in Bellville cemetery.

A. H. WOOD, ATTENDANCE OFFICER OF SCHOOLS, DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Arthur H. Wood, attendance officer for Mansfield Public schools for the past 13 years, died unexpectedly at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at his home, 33 Arthur avenue. Death was believed caused by a cerebral hemmorrhage.

Mr. Wood had been apparently in good health and went about his duties Thursday morning as usual. He worked in his office in the Richland Trust building until noon when he complained of feeling ill, and went to his home. He died while seated on a davenport.

Born on a farm in Butler township, Mr. Wood came to Mansfield 25 years ago. He was the only son of Hulbert H. and Minnie Hunter Wood. For a number of years he was employed as a foreman with the Roderick Lean Manufacturing company, and in 1925 he was engaged as attendance officer by the Mansfield board of education.

His duties put him in daily contact with truants. He knew a large number of the pupils personally, and had a remarkable memory for faces and names. He also was keenly interested in juvenile work.

A mai of middle-age, Mr. Wood was sensitive about his age and not even his closest friends knew how old he was. Board of education records also failed to disclose his age.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian church, Mansfield lodge No. 35, F. & A. M., Mansfield Tent No. 130, Maccabees, the Schoolmasters' club, and served on the board of trustees of the Salvation Army.

ARTHUR H. WOOD

Surviving are his wife, Deborah Engle Wood; a daughter, Katheryn Louise, at hame, and two sisters, Miss Ima Wood of Mansfield, and Mrs. J. V. Middleworth of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday at the Finefrock funeral home with David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating, assisted by Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, and officers of Mansfield lodge No. 35, F. & A. M. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. The body will remain at the home until 1 p. m. Saturday.

POLICE OBTAIN CONFESSION IN FARM KILLING

Theatrical Make-up Used to Hide Identity, Youth Says; Infatuation Blamed.

(By Associated Press)

JEFFERSON — Young Steve Kovalick was held on a first degree murder charge today despite the temporary success of a cunning plan he devised, Prosecutor Ward Cross said, to slay a neighbor with whose wife he was infatuated.

The prosecutor said Kovalcik signed a confession relating that he shot and killed Walter Kangas, 31, of North Geneva, last Monday night.

The 22-year-old farm youth turned amateur actor and disguised himself with theatrical makeup "to get rid of Walter," Cross said.

Had False Mustache.

Kovalcik's statement told that he altered his appearance with a false mustache, nose putty, a wrinkle pencil and dark face powder he obtained from a Cleveland theatrical supply house. He then donned a pair of spectacles.

Cross said Kovalcik's confidence led him to inquire of Joe Puglisee, another neighbor, where Kangas lived.

The youth proceeded to the Kangas home, Cross quoted, knocked at the door and feigned a holdup after Mr. and Mrs. Kangas admitted him. He claimed he had a son in a hospital and demanded $45. When Kangas protested, the killer fired one .45 caliber bullet into his body, the confession said.

Mrs. Kangas and Pugliese agreed in statements to deputy sheriffs that the slayer was of foreign appearance and about 50 years old.

Investigators learned that Kovalcik washed his face at a gasoline service station near Painesville after disposing of his theatrical accessories. They found the revolver hidden in a farm building.

Kovalcik pleaded innocent when arraigned on the murder charge yesterday. He was held to the grandjury.

Posses Go Into Bear Country in Hunt for Missing Girl.

BRADFORD, Pa.—(AP)—Hope of success ebbing fast, weary volunteers set out in another frostry dawn today to push the search for little Marjorie West still deeper into the wild, heavily forested mountains of Northern Pennsylvania.

Mayor Hugh J. Ryan, who broadcast an appeal for able-bodied volunteers to join the hunt for the blue-eyed, four-year-old daughter of an oil field worker, said that more than 300 men responded to the call yesterday.

Ryan had said that yesterday's wide-spread search in this district of oil fields and bear hunting country was to be the final drive, but leaders conferred last night and decided to push on today.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Propaganda Nasty Stuff Sometimes, But Here Is Propaganda For Honesty

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Senator Green, of Rhode Island, says a magazine called Rural Progress, to which Glenn Frank contributes editorials, is published only to spread propaganda against the New Deal. This magazine is under investigation by the senate lobby committee, of which he is a member. Senator Green obviously considers that the dissemination of propaganda against the New Deal is a wicked business.

There are others, however, who regard this as a patriotic work.

The word "propaganda" came to have a nasty meaning with us during the World war, when the allies and the Germans were pulling and hauling at us to enlist our sympathies. Actually, however, propaganda is not necessarily wrong. I suppose I might be regarded as a propagandist for the extension of the federal income tax to the salaries of some three million and odd employes of the state, county and municipal governments. If so I am acting well within my rights, and I am ready to defend my proposition.

* * *

I suppose I might be regarded as a propagandist against the conduct of the senate lobby committee, too. If so I am still within my rights, and again I am able to defend my proposition.

I contend that this committee is much more dishonest and subversive of good government in its failure thus far to investigate or even acknowledge the existence of administration lobbying than any single magazine could be disseminating propaganda, even though that propaganda were a leetle bit dishonest. Incidentally, this doesn't seem to be much of a magazine. I never heard of it before. Did you?

* * *

I contend that a committee of the senate which uses the Senate's authority to investigate any matter is bound to investigate both sides and to treat them alike. If it goes after one side in the manner of a county prosecutor trying to earn the honored nickname of "ropes" by sending prisoners to the gallows, then it should call up lobbyists from the other side and tear into them with equal cynicism.

This committee hasn't done that and shows no intention of doing anything of the kind, so it is my opinion that the committee is abusing its authority, shirking a duty and doing more harm to the country than this little magazine did.

If the committee doesn't go after the lobbyists who lobbied for the reorganization bill it will cheapen the senate and give the people to believe that they have lost the right to oppose the dominant political party's measures, except at considerable risk.

* * *

I don't know by what process it could be done, but I seriously propose that this lobby committee be investigated and that the members placed on the stand and questioned regarding conversations which they may have had in deciding whom to investigate and whom to ignore.

And if propaganda against the New Deal is, of itself, investigable (hold 'er, Newt!), then propaganda for the New Deal is equally investigable. And if it is wrong to spend $900,000 in three years running a little magazine in opposition to the administration, then it is X times as wrong for the administration to employ great numbers of press agents, mainly ex-newspaper men with political connections, at public expense to make propaganda for the New Deal.

* * *

When it comes to propaganda this administration is in a class by itself, and analysis of that propaganda would show the same proportion of untruth or half-truth that could be found in the anti-New Deal material. In fact, this lobby committee itself is doing little else than make propaganda for the New Deal.

I don't suppose it ever can be compelled to happen, but I still like to think of a scene in which members of the United States senate are placed on the stand and forced to tell under oath who lobbied them in favor of the reorganization bill, naming names and reporting in detail what promises and threats, if any, were employed in an attempt to force them to vote for the bill.

This piece is propaganda for the pious purpose of keeping the lobby committee honest.

League Crumbles With Only Non-Member Standing By Its Non-Aggression Principles

—By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Expert)

NEW YORK—Little Emperor Haile Selassie has lost his fight to regain the Ethiopian throne which was wrested from his frail hands by Italian legions, and with his passing (or better, largely because of it) comes what consensus of world-statesmanship calls the end of the centuries old golden dream of collective security as represented in the League of Nations.

Italy demanded Selassie's head as the price of a peace pact with England, and an unwilling but helpless league council has played Herod at the behest of Britain and France.

* * *

The members of the league, who originally banded themselves together for the express purpose of preserving peace and preventing armed conquest, have been freed from their oaths by the council.

They may now recognize Mussolini's annexation of Ethiopia. And whether they make pious mental reservations of disapproval matters not one whit—especially to the man who has been deprived of the throne of his fathers and driven into exile in strange lands far from his own people.

As the council wrote this decision into history, there was a knocking at the door. It was China begging for relief from the Japanese invasion. Dr. Wellington Koo, American-educated Chinese representative at the league, perhaps could see his answer in the bowed head of the Emperor of Ethiopia.

With announcement of the council's decision came an unexpected and sensational interpolation in this drama of dramas. The new actor was the only great power which had consistently refused to become a member of the League of Nations.

That was our own United States quered territory. Thus the principle of the league was sustained by a non-member.

* * *

Strange and conflicting emotions must have beset the Ethiopian ruler when he appeared before the council as a suppliant. Only a few brief years ago the very nations represented there had paid him honor as he ascended the throne and it reiterated in no uncertain terms that it still adhered to its policy of non-recognition of conwith coronation ceremonies of barbaric splendor.

Then he was the lauded descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba—the King of Kings, the Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, the Elect of God, and the Light of the World. Now he came pleading to the council.

But Haile Selassie did not beg with his hat in hand. It is recorded that this slight figure in the well-known black cloak was every inch the emperor. There was dignity in his appeal.

Selassie's quest before the league council was hopeless from the start, and he knew it. His only satisfaction rests in the fact that he did his utmost to regain the independence of his country for which he fought with his primitive army under his slogan:

"It were better to die free than to live without liberty."

Make-up Important To Brides

By JULIET SHELBY
(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

NOTHING IS as thrilling to this department as a wedding. And we were really enthralled last week when we went to a fashion and beauty show for prospective brides. More than 500 brides-to-be attended. We saw a modern wedding rehearsal for six different types of brides. Bridal gowns were shown with the correct bridesmaid's frocks, flowers and makeup for every feminine member of the wedding party.

If you are one of the lucky ones whose big moment is going to be a May or June wedding, we thought that you'd be interested in the suggestions for different type brides. The cosmetic salon that put on the show also has a bride's counsellor service. And they have suggested that clothes will be tinted in cosmetic tones to enhance your beauty on that day of days.

The first type was the girl graduate bride. She was wearing a rachel shade tulle dress, simply styled in youthful lines, with puffed sleeves and deep, square necked decolletage. The veil was draped bonnet fashion and caught with tiny orange blossoms close to the coiffure. The flowers had been arranged in a shower armlet design, draped clear to the hem of the dress and made of a combination of flowers: lily of the valley, jasmin, orange blossoms, gardenias and white orchids. She wore a delicate perfume of flowers.

Subtle Makeup for Bride.

Her makeup, which we want to warn you should be subtle and discreet for all brides, was light rachel powder, rose crimson rouge and lipstick, blue eye shadow and dark brown mascara. The bridesmaids were also youthful in tulle dresses in a lovely shade of soft sea blue. The hats were made in a matching shade and trimmed with a muted red. The flowers were arranged in a shower armlet fashion and made of umbellartum lilies. Their makeup was: light rachel powder, blush rose rouge and lipstick, blue eye shadow and blue mascara.

The second type was the old-fashioned bride. She was dressed in pale pink net over a taffeta slip. The style of this gown was inspired by Molyneux' "Winterhalter" dress from the Paris openings. The flowers used with this gown were in the design of a delicate orange blossom and tulle fan. Her make-up was light rachel powder, rosy crimson rouge and lipstick, blue eye shadow and black or dark brown mascara. The bridesmaids costumes were a delicate bluish green net.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

EAGLES FLY HIGH

It is only natural that Eagles should rank higher than any of the old suits in Five-Suit bridge, which some players were beginning to call Quintract. In many a deal, game can be made at the new suit when it would be impossible at any other declaration. That is because you need one less trick for game, which is 120. Four-odd at Eagles, counting 30 each, are easier than 5-Spades or 5-Hearts counting 25 or 6-Diamonds or clubs counting 20. Three No-Trumps at 40 a trick is tempting, but pretty hard when you have to stop five suits.

E. ♠ A 8 6 3 ♥ A 10 6 3 ♦ K J 6 ♣ 10 8 4 ♣ J 2
W. ♠ Q 9 7 ♥ 9 3 2 ♦ A K Q 9 7 ♣ K 5 3
E. ♠ K J 8 ♥ 10 8 7 5 ♦ 6 3 ♣ A 9 8 7 4
S. ♠ 5 4 2 ♥ A Q ♦ J 5 2 ♣ Q 10 6

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable. Widow card: Heart 4.)

This was a case of a worthless little card, which was not a trump, being worth two tricks to the declarer when he used it properly.

South opened the bidding in second hand position with 1-Eagle. West overcalled with 2-Diamonds and North jumped with 3-Eagles. That bid has acquired almost the same meaning as in four-suit contract, so South raised to 4-Eagles, a game contract. It meant that he had to take 12 tricks, or four over the book of eight. He could therefore afford to lose four tricks of the 16 and still have his game.

Using the widow correctly, he placed the heart 4 in the dummy, discarding the diamond 4. He ruffed the third diamond lead with the A, ran trumps and trashed two spades on the dummy's hearts. So he lost only two tricks in each minor.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

IT WAS not until I was getting into my waiting car, with the attentive young door man holding the door open for me, that I remembered the detective who had been dogging my footsteps and Marys since we came to the Lansfield.

I sent a hasty glance toward the doorway which, as Mary had said, he had been "decorating," but he was not there. As I bent to my switch key, however, his obnoxiously familiar figure came out from another doorway a little farther down the street, hestitatd for a second, and then went back to his first position again.

The movement confirmed a conviction I had had from the first. Mary, not I, was the object of his surveillance. As long as he was certain that she remained in the hotel, my movements were a matter of supreme indifference to him.

The knowledge did not make my mind easier as I drove away. This determined espionage upon my husband's beautiful, young niece, the refusal of the hotel manager to let Miss Whitlock have an adjoining suite until I forced the issue with Philip Veritzen, the knowledge that all the suites on our floor were vacant by order of Mr. Veritzen, who. Mary had remembered, was the owner of the Lansfield, and the queer reluctance of Mr. Milner to have chains put upon our doors—all these apparently unrelated happenings marshalled themselves in my mind and formed themselves into a pattern, unreadable as yet to me, but in which I thought I discerned a sinister menace to Mary.

Recalls Precautions.

I should not leave her, I told myself in sudden panic, then calmed myself with the remembrance of the precautions I had taken, and of Miss Whitlock's sturdy competence and common sense.

But my own problem, and the very errand upon which I was bent, seemed suddenly petty and inconsequential. Although I had reached the street in which the magazine offices were located, I think I should have turned back if I hadn't suddenly caught a glimpse of the man who had joined the woman of mystery in the French restaurant, after Dicky had left her with the disdainful permission to summon anyone she pleased to eat the dinner he had left, ordered but still unserved, behind him.

Passes By Office.

I was behind him. He had not yet seen me, and with a sudden panicky feeling that I must not let him get a glimpse of me, I drew the car to a fortunately vacant place along the curb and turned off the switch. Then with a cautious eye on his retreating back, I descended to the street, locked the car, and took refuge in a neighboring drug store with a window commanding a view of that section of the street down which he was walking.

The entrance to the magazine offices was within the line of my vision, and when his already loitering footsteps slowed upon nearing it. I felt my throat muscles constrict as if a throttling hand had been suddenly placed upon them. Would he enter those doors?

It seemed to me that I waited an eternity for the answer, but when it came it brought a certain relief. The man's gaze searched the facade of the building but he did not enter. Instead, he quickened his footsteps once he had passed it, and shortly afterward turned a corner and was lost to my view.

Time Not Ripe.

But his appearance had clarified one issue for me. It was suddenly borne in upon me that not yet must I go to that magazine office and see Dicky. The time was not ripe. Something was afoot, the nature of which I could not fathom, but I was convinced that I would not add to my knowledge and might spoil any hope of helping Dicky out of his mysterious "jam" by a premature appearance there.

I took a leaf out of Mary's book, and, going into a telephone booth, called the magazine number, and in a disguised voice asked to speak to Mr. Graham.

And the voice that answered was that of the woman who had called the hotel demanding drunkenly to talk to Dicky, and who later I had heard in colloquy with him at the French restaurant!

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, May 14.

Very active conditions are presaged for this day but not on an auspicious nature. The financial interests are at stake, with speculation, investments, credit and the support of employers, superiors or influential personages jeopardized. Much skill, good judgment and the indorsement of loyal friends may be needed to avert loss.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which much wisdom, shrewdness and the support of loyal friends may be needed to avoid loss of position, credit and financial standing, either through bad investment, speculation, extravagance or private complications. A stimulated spirit of initiative, courage and adventure may aid in sidestepping such hazards.

A child born on this day may be bold, courageous and adventurous, with large ideas and expansive urges which may lead it into difficulties and loss. Sound training in directing such enterprise and initiative may benefit a proud and generous nature.

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint.

Spiced Baked Slice Ham
Scalloped Potatoes
Cabbage and Carrot Salad
Apple Betty Tea

Buy a ham butt or half a ham if you can use it. Have the butcher cut off the slice required for the spiced baked ham, then you can boil or bake the rest of the piece and use it to the last bit, even boiling the bone with beans for bean soup. That is the way the efficient housewife operates.

Today's Recipes.

SPICED BAKED HAM — Have ham cut one and one-half to two inches thick, stick with 25 whole cloves. Make a sauce of one-half cup vinegar and one-half cup water, two teaspoons mustard and one-fourth cup brown sugar. Bake slowly for two hours, basting frequently.

APPLE BETTY—Alternate layers of bread crumbs and chopped apples in a well-buttered dish, sprinkle each layer with cinnamon and brown sugar. Before putting on top layer of crumbs, pour in one-fourth cup boiling water with a little butter (one teaspoon). Bake half an hour covered and serve with hard sauce.

My Neighbor Says:

Tomato seedlings that have been started in the house may be transplanted into a cold frame. Plant seedlings about 4 inches apart.

When cooking asparagus, do not cover the utensil in which is is being cooked. Cooked in this way the natural color of the asparagus is preserved.

Clay flower pots should always be used on a moist surface such as wet sand, or blotting paper. This keeps the pot moist and prevents drying out of the roots.

Divide and replant fall asters and chrysanthemums now. Dig in commercial fertilizer or well-rotted manure around plants to give them a good start.

"You can take Dot anywhere," Jim says. "And she'll never let you down."

Sweet praise indeed. Let's tag along and see what it is that makes Dot such a popular dinner date.

First of all, her gay self-assurance puts her escort completely at ease. She waits for him to pull out her chair, smiles her appreciation as he helps her off with her wrap.

Second, she makes a man feel important. "What do you recommend, Jim?" she asks as they examine the menu. She always tells her date what she wants, lets him give their order to the waiter.

Third, she avoids all the little slips that offend fastidious people. She touches her napkin to her lips before taking a drink of water if there is risk of a greasy smear on the glass. She puts salt for celery on her plate, not on the tablecloth. She never drops olive pits in the ash tray.

MAKE PERFECT CUSTARD PIE THIS EASY WAY
Filling delicately firm, crust so tender and flaky

Here's the new way to make custard pie that gives success every time. Just remember two things. First, bake your pie in a very hot oven (450°). Then your filling won't soak into the crust and make it soggy. Second, use Spry, the new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening to get extra flaky, tender crust.

Triple-creamed Spry gives flakier pastry, lighter cakes in half the mixing time. Cooking experts for 281 home-making schools say it's the creamiest shortening they ever used. Better for frying, too. Try Spry—make this pie today!

Custard Pie

3 eggs and 2 egg yolks or 4 eggs, slightly beaten
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 Spry Pie Shell
Nutmeg

Beat eggs slightly and add sugar and salt. Add milk and vanilla. Strain custard mixture into unbaked pie shell and sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 30 to 40 minutes, or until knife inserted comes out clean.

Spry Pie Shell

1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup Spry
3 tablespoons cold water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Add ½ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as corn meal. Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. (Notice how easily triple-creamed Spry cuts into your flour.) Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed. Roll dough ⅛-inch thick. Place dough in pie plate and let relax 5 minutes. Pat with ball of dough. Trim pastry ½-inch larger than pan and turn back edge. Flute rim.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

Try Spry for lighter cakes, crisper fried foods, too.

CANTALOUPES IN SPOTLIGHT AS GRAPEFRUIT SEASON NEARS END

As the season for grapefruit nears an end, cantaloupes from California are coming in to take their place. From that state also comes the Royal Anne cherries which make their appearance on the Mansfield market this week.

Early Georgia peaches, white clingstone variety, also are promised for the week-end.

Housewives interested in pineapples for canning and preserving will find them plentiful on the market next week, as the canning fruit begins to arrive in quantities.

The cold and dry weather here in Ohio has not affected the berry crops of southern states, and Kentucky strawberries are coming into Mansfield in quantities that make them reasonable in price.

But the weather has played havoc with the home grown asparagus which is scarce. Spinach, green onions and red and white radishes are also homegrown products.

The shipped-in vegetables offer plenty of variety. The first okra is due this week, and summer and Italian squash have been on the market for some time. Then there is kale, endive, escarole, lima beans, green and yellow beans, mustard greens and broccoli.

Head lettuce, which has been in the luxury class because of the price, has decreased slightly, but is still expensive. New and old potatoes are almost in the same price brackets, for while several varieties of new potatoes may be had for two and a half cents a pound, the better grade of the old crop also brings that figure.

Green peas and new sweet corn, both white and yellow, and fresh water cress, will claim the attention of many shoppers.

MAP TAX PLAN

Treasury Would Have Regional Offices for Disputes.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Treasury officials have disclosed a plan to establish 12 regional internal revenue offices to handle income tax disputes.

They made it clear that these branches would not be charged with collecting taxes, a function which will continue to remain with internal revenue collectors.

The plan has not been thoroughly worked out but because of a successful experiment in handling protested assessments by a special unit set up in Los Angeles, the program was expected to be speeded.

The 12 regional offices would have branches in various cities.

FIGHT ORDER

Rural Phone Subscribers Ask New Hearing on Transfer.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Clyde H. Hooley, spokesman for a group of rural residents in Delaware county, has asked the Ohio Public Utilities commission for a re-hearing of a previously dismissed protest against the Northern Ohio Telephone company.

The group headed by Hooley seeks to prevent the telephone company from transferring them from the Delaware to the Lewis Center exchange.

In requesting a re-hearing the group said:

"Socially, spiritually, educationally or otherwise we are no part or parcel of Lewis Center."

They also claimed it was impossible for them to receive efficient service if served out of Lewis Center.

RICH SPLENDOR OF TAHITI GONE, SAYS PRINCESS

Daughter of Last Ruler Sends Plea to France for Relief for Pacific Island.

(By United Press)

PARIS — Tahiti, traditional paradise of the Pacific, must undergo radical economic, social and administrative reforms if it is to save any part of its fast-disappearing island lure. That is the opinion of Princess Terii Nui-o Tahiti-Pomare, who might have been Queen of Tahiti today if certain historical incidents had not destroyed the Tahitian kingdom.

Princess Terri, who has been living in a little Paris apartment since last fall, came to the French capital from Tahiti primarily in the interests of her island. In this hope of salvaging some of the wealth, health and happiness, of Tahiti she has had interviews with President Albert Lebrun and with Marx Mouted, minister of colonies.

"I'm not asking for a throne," Princess Terri said. "I thank history that I will never have the responsibilities of being a ruler in this system of modern civilization; but I would gladly play the role of a 'manager' for the native population if the authorities should ever deem it necessary."

Speaks English, French.

The "queen-that-might-have-been," eldest daughter of Tahiti's last king, does not look like the Tahitian princess visualized after reading travel circulars or "Mutiny on the Bounty." Her poise and conversational ability, expressed equally fluently in English or French, carry no suggestion of the liquid speech of a tropical island. Bespectacled, 58, stout, shawl-protected, the princess's Polynesian skin and fine features are the only indications of her race.

She became actively interested in Christian Science 2 years ago when her mother, "Queen Pomare V," died. One of her hopes is that she will be authorized to translate the doctrines of Mary Baker Eddy into the Tahitian language.

Princess Terii will leave Paris late this summer for her native island, but only for a visit. She wants to spend the rest of her days in California. "I went to school in California when I was 8, and later I lived for four years in San Francisco; but francs don't make many dollars these days," she said. Her pension which she receives from the French government amounts to 675 francs a month, slightly more than $20 at the present rate of exchange.

WAGE SUIT OF $1 WON

REGINA, Sask.—(U.P.)—Believed the smallest amount ever involved in a Saskatchewan court case, John Yonciw, Regina, won a suit for $1 in a wage claim against L. E. Robinson.

Once Greatest Sawmill Now Used In Paper Industry.

BOGALUSA, La. — (AP) — The Great Southern Lumber company's sawmill, once rated greatest in the world, has cut its last log: but Bogalusa has no fear of becoming a ghost town.

The vast supply of virgin pine from which the mill averaged more than 700,000 feet of lumber a day for years is all gone now but where it stood are 300,000 acres of planted pines.

These pines not suitable for lumber, are ideal for pulp and paper making.

With the Purchase of Big 25c ECONOMY Size Package at Your Dealer's

Offer Made For the Sole Purpose of Acquainting More Women With DREFT . . . The Amazing and Revolutionary New Procter & Gamble Suds Discovery That . . .

(1) Completely BANISHES Dingy, Soapy, HARD WATER SCUM—Prevents Premature, Dulling and Graying of Colors in Dainty, Expensive Things.

(2) Makes 5 Times GREATER SUDS Than Any Soap in the HARDEST WATER. Not A Water Softener—A Complete Washing Agent.

(3) Can't Possibly Harm Any Color or Fabric That's Safe in Plain Water—Yet Takes Out Lipstick and So-Called "Impossible" Smudges.

(4) Rinses Out COMPLETELY and THOROUGHLY—No Soapy Deposit Left.

Special Money-Back Guarantee Offer

Accept this full-size 15c package of Dreft for 1c with the purchase of big 25c economy size package. Use the smaller package first—for washing your daintiest, loveliest silk or woolen things. Then, if you are not absolutely convinced that Dreft is better than the most expensive soap flakes you have ever used, just return the 25c package to your dealer and he will refund your full purchase price. We will repay him.

Procter & Gamble

DON'T DELAY . . . ACT AT ONCE . . . WHILE SUPPLY LASTS

Simply Do This

To Keep Your Loveliest Things Looking Colorful, Fresh And Gay: Go To Your Dealer And Buy A 25c Size Package Of Dreft. Then, For Only 1c More—Receive A Full Size 15c Package To Try. Money Back If Not Satisfied.

● Procter and Gamble makes this remarkable offer—a regular fifteen-cent package of DREFT for 1¢—for the sole purpose of inducing more women to try this amazing and utterly new washing creation. So that they can see for themselves that here at last is the way to wash fine things perfectly and with utter safety to any color or fabric that plain water won't harm.

Just go to your dealer's and get a big, economy size twenty-five-cent package of DREFT. And you'll receive for ONLY ONE CENT, a regular 15c package of DREFT (a 15c package marked especially to sell at 1c during this sale).

Banishes Troublesome, Dingy, Color-Dulling, Hard-Water Scum

If you enjoy keeping your dainty, delicate, expensive things looking fresh, colorful and gay—even after scores of washings—you owe it to yourself to try DREFT—(Process and product patented U. S. letters patent, 1,968,793 to 7 inclusive) the most amazing washing discovery in over 2000 years! For DREFT brings an entirely new conception of how long you can wear lingerie, chiffon hose and fine woolens without seeing them grow dim, dull and lifeless. And the chief reason for this is because DREFT can't possibly form any hard-water "scum."

This "scum" which you always see in your rinse water, is unnoticeable in your wash water—yet it is there, doing its vicious work, wash after wash, dulling the lustre of your sheer lingerie, spotting and streaking silk stockings. And this is true even though you have used what, before the discovery of DREFT, was recognized as the best, most expensive, soap known for washing fine fabrics.

Amazing as this may seem, DREFT ends all this because it can't form scum. And even more amazing, DREFT actually removes the stubborn, clinging scum particles that failed to rinse away in previous soap washings—lets "scum-dulled" colors come up to their true brilliance. You'll be thrilled to see the delicate colors and feel the silky softness of your sheerest stockings "wash back" in DREFT suds.

5 Times Greater Suds

In addition, DREFT does these three remarkable things no single soap has ever done, or can do now:

Makes 5 times greater suds than any soap in the hardest water.

Cleanses thoroughly—even lipstick and so-called "impossible" smudges!

Rinses out completely—no soapy deposit left.

By comparison DREFT makes even the purest soap you have ever known seem harsh—because DREFT suds contain no alkali. Alkali in soapsuds is what fades colors. DREFT suds are the only suds you can get that do not contain alkali. You'll be astonished how, wash after wash, silk stockings actually seem like new when you use DREFT. It's economical too. For instance, in hard water, you need only use half as much DREFT as you would the finest soap flakes. We don't ask you to take our word for these amazing claims. Prove them for yourself at our risk.

Take Advantage of 1c Sale Today

Please take special notice that this unusual 1¢ bargain sale is limited. You can only get 1¢ DREFT while your dealer's stock lasts. Remember to get DREFT today. Your money back if you're not satisfied. Act quickly and avoid disappointment.

Process and product patented U. S. letters patent 1,968,793 to 7 inclusive.
